QUEEN, PRINCE TRY OUT NEW COMET AIRLINER

LEUCHARS, Scotland (Reuters) — The Queen and Prince Philip travelled today by a Comet II jet airliner to an RAF base here—the first time members of the Royal Family have flown in this type of jet plane since it was grounded three years ago after a series of crashes.

The Comet brought the royal couple from an RAF base in Norfolk for a visit here.

Cost of Living Hits Record High

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs in Canada reached a record high level during April, pushed up mainly by increased prices for miscellaneous goods and services.

The consumer price index, yardstick of living costs, edged up two-tenths of a point in the month, the bureau of statistics said today.

The bureau reported that the index, based on 1949 prices, equalling 100, stood at 121.1 at the end of April, compared with 120.9 at the end of March. A year ago the index stood at 116.6.

The food index was unchanged at 116.7 and the clothing index unchanged at 108.5, but the catch-all index of "other commodities and services" jumped to 126.3 from 125.1.

In the latter group prices advanced for a wide variety of items including theatre admissions, streetcar and bus fares, haircuts, newspapers, beer and automobile insurance rates.

The household operation index decreased to 119.2 from 119.4 as a result of seasonal declines for coal which were partially offset by small scattered increases for home furnishings and household supplies.

The shelter index rose to 134.2 from 134.0 as both rent and home ownership components advanced fractionally.

U.K. Papers Predict Cuts in H-Bomb Tests

LONDON (AP)—Two London newspapers say Britain will cut short her current hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific after her next and third blast. It had been understood the government planned to touch off four explosions.

Government officials refused to confirm or deny the reports by The News Chronicle and the Labor Party's Daily Herald in dispatches from the test centre at Christmas Island. The reports say the tests will be curtailed because of: 1. Pressure brought by the Labor opposition in Parliament to keep radioactive fallout to a minimum. 2. Success of the two tests. Prime Minister Macmillan, while refusing to accede to demands to call off the Christmas Island tests, has said they will be held to a minimum.

Answering a question in the Commons from Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell, Macmillan said the fallout from Friday's bomb was "insignificant."

Gaitskell referred to press reports that 2,000 American scientists have signed a petition asking for an international agreement to stop the tests.

Macmillan replied "I have seen references in the newspapers to this appeal by scientists. The reports do not say that it is supported by any new evidence."

32,000 B.C. Loggers To Take Strike Vote

All Political Parties Given Lists of Voters

Returning Officer Disputes Diefenbaker

(See Also-Page 3)

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay said today representatives of all government political parties contesting the June 10 federal election received lists of voters in the armed forces.

Asked to comment on a statement by Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker that his party was unable to obtain a mailing list of armed forces personnel, Mr. Castonguay said: "If the statement attributed to Mr. Diefenbaker is correct, then Mr. Diefenbaker has been misinformed."

(In an interview at Halifax Mr. Diefenbaker declined to amplify his statement that his party had been unable to obtain a list of armed forces personnel.)

Mr. Castonguay said the lists were prepared at each military establishment by the commanding officers, on orders issued some weeks ago by national defence headquarters. Five copies of the nominal rolls showing the rank, name and place of ordinary residence for voting purposes were sent by each commander to special returning officers in charge of the service vote at Edmonton, Ottawa, Halifax and London, England.

TOLD TO REPORT

Mr. Castonguay said the party representatives—two each for the Liberal and Conservative parties and one each for the CCF and Social Credit parties—were told to report May 27 to the special returning officers.

Whatever nominal rolls that had then been received from various military establishments were distributed to the party representatives at the same time. Others were distributed in the same manner as they became available. No restriction was placed on the use of the lists.

While the lists did not give the postal address the names were grouped by military establishment so that a letter sent to a service camp or base would reach him.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in Liverpool, N.S., Monday night that a letter printed on the letterhead of the National Liberal Federation over a facsimile signature of Prime Minister St. Laurent was sent to servicemen urging them to re-elect a Liberal government. He said his party was unable to obtain mailing lists of armed forces personnel.

H. Erskine Kidd, general secretary of the federation in Ottawa, said the letters were distributed by Liberal scrutineers who received a list of voters from the special returning officers.

Diefenbaker "Sour" St. Laurent Chides

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today he has invited, but not ordered, Canada's armed forces to vote for the return of his government June 10.

The Liberal leader said it was John Diefenbaker's "sour disposition" which had caused the Conservative leader to suggest the armed forces had been "ordered" to vote for the Liberals.

"If Mr. Diefenbaker knew anything about the forces, he would have known that they are not the kind of people to be given orders on what opinions to hold on public affairs."

What the Liberal party had done was merely to invite the soldiers, sailors and airmen to vote for the government if they felt that the administration merited their support.

It was the kind of invitation that Mr. Diefenbaker must be putting up to the Canadian people—to vote for the Conservatives, Mr. St. Laurent said.

"If that is not what he is doing, I don't know what he is travelling about the country for," he added.

Japan Given Right to Try U.S. Soldier

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States agreed today to let a Japanese court try an American soldier charged with killing a Japanese woman.

By the decision, the U.S. drops any claim to the right to try William C. Girard by court martial.

A joint statement by State Secretary Dulles and Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson said the agreement was made after consideration by a joint U.S.-Japan committee, under terms of the status of forces agreement between the two countries.

The U.S. decision follows trouble in Formosa where a somewhat similar case resulted in riots less than two weeks ago. In the Formosa incident a U.S. court martial freed a soldier who killed an alleged Chinese peeping tom.

Mrs. Naka Sakai, 46, was shot while scavenging scrap metal at a U.S. Army firing range Jan. 30. The accusation under which the 21-year-old American faces trial carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

Vancouver Plans $700 Million Redevelopment

VANCOUVER (CP)—A possible $700,000,000 redevelopment of Vancouver's downtown area will be studied by a company which has been formed here.

The Dominion Redevelopment Corporation was formed by the Downtown Business Association to investigate recommendations for revitalizing the city centre.

"The company is a non-profit group," said Stanley V. Smith, director of the business association.

The scheme calls for a 21-year gradual rebuilding of the downtown area with more open space and parking facilities.

Sheila E. Mann, 24, of 2120 Oak Bay Avenue, led the second year with an average of 85.9 per cent, followed by Charlotte M. Kay, 20, of 573 Monterey, with 85.2 per cent.

First-year leaders were Margaret I. Voght of Kelowna, 86.7 per cent, and Anna M. Ale of Ashcroft, 81.2 per cent.

FROM REGINA

Miss Mann also had a first-class average at Scott Collegiate high school in Regina, where she took her senior matriculation. She came to Victoria with her parents three years ago and worked as a stenographer in the Royal Bank main branch before entering college last year.

In September she will begin teaching at a Victoria elementary school and plans to enter UBC "in two years or so" to get her bachelor of education degree. Miss Mann is working this summer as a relief stenographer in the Royal Bank.

Miss Kay climbed from a second-class average in first-year college to nudge the leader in second year.

Graduate of Oak Bay High School, she is working in the department of education this summer. At college she was president of the student publication, "Tuesday Noon Record."

'SEE NO WRONG IN ACTION' SAYS FAIREY

Dr. F. T. Fairey, Liberal MP in the last Commons seeking re-election in Victoria, said today he could see no wrong in election campaigning being carried to the armed services.

He was commenting on a statement made Monday night by Conservative leader John Diefenbaker criticizing the Liberal party for sending a vote-seeking letter to servicemen.

Dr. Fairey said he had no knowledge of the letter, but added:

"Why should the armed services be different from any other citizens in the reception of campaign literature through the mails?"

"I can't understand why because men are in the armed forces they should not receive it."

THE BALD BOY—CHAPTER TWO

He Joins Hair Tonic Anonymous

By ELMER WHEELER

My pride began to hurt me as fast as my hair left me.

After all, being fat is often a sign of affluence. Fat comes from just plain overeating, and you need money to eat.

But loss of hair. That's a sign of neglect, deterioration, or just plain hard luck.

People began to notice me noticing my receding hair, and they'd

The chairman and one member of a three-man conciliation board have recommended in their majority report a five-month truce in contract negotiations. Robert Smeal, union nominee on the board, charged that the report was "illegal" because only the minister of labor can sanction such an extension.

The union, representing 30,000 Coast woodworkers, is demanding a 20 per cent wage increase and other benefits. The present master contract covering the industry expires June 14.

The premier, now campaigning on the prairies, said in a telephone interview from Saskatoon that "the cabinet is anxious that conciliation be reached."

Both Becks in Bad; Senior Denies Guilt

From Times Wire Services

Both Dave Becks were in the news today and both were in trouble.

In Tacoma, Dave Sr., embattled president of the Teamsters' Union, who said he should not be judged until he had his "day in court," had it before U.S. District Judge George H. Boldt on income tax evasion charges.

He pleaded not guilty. In Washington, Dave Jr. faced contempt of Congress charges after he had refused, 130 times, to answer questions on his relations with the Teamsters' Union and its payroll.

Facing similar charges in Washington was Joseph McEvoy, the elder Beck's nephew by marriage, is charged with cheating the government out of $56,420 in 1950 income taxes.

The federal grand jury which indicted him May 2 also charged Beck with helping prepare a fraudulent tax return in the same year for Teamsters' Joint Council No. 28 Building Association.

The trial of the paunchy, bull-necked labor leader is expected to begin this fall. If found guilty the maximum penalty would be five years in prison and a $10,000 fine on each count.

In Washington—chairman John L. McClellan of the senate racketeers committee today ordered contempt of congress proceedings started by the committee staff after a fruitless questioning of Dave Beck Jr. and McEvoy.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.), a committee member, predicted that the committee would vote a contempt citation and that the Senate would approve it.

If the committee recommends contempt citations and the Senate votes them, they will go to the justice department for prosecution. Maximum penalty upon conviction is a year in jail and $1,000 fine.

LIBERALS 'IGNORING' SOCREDS

Latest Strategy Skillings Claims

The latest Liberal Party strategy is to ignore the Socreds to give the impression it's a party of little consequence in the federal election campaign, Victoria Socred candidate said Monday night.

Addressing a meeting at Esquimalt High School auditorium, Mr. Skillings recalled in the last federal campaign the Liberal strategy was to infer that a vote for a Socred was a vote for Fascism.

"I recall an article in the Liberty Magazine that suggested we were fascist," he said. "Today, however, the strategy has changed. They are ignoring us."

NO REPLY

Mr. Skillings repeated his challenge to his Liberal opponent, Dr. Frank Fairley, to a public debate on statements he (Dr. Fairley) had made in political addresses.

"Since I made the challenge, I have received no reply from Dr. Fairley," he said.

The candidate charge that Dr. Fairley did not raise one objection in the House of Commons when the government began to move many of the naval technical schools at Naden to Montreal, Halifax and Cornwallis.

"I remember a representative to the north of us strongly objecting to the moving of naval personnel," he said. "The MP did not even get the support of the Liberal member."

Mr. Skillings charged that Ottawa did not give B.C. a fair share of ship-building contracts. The majority of contracts, he said, were awarded to eastern firms.

He chided Dr. Fairley for claiming he had assisted in obtaining federal government grants for the reconstruction of Admirals Road.

As far back as eight years ago, he said, Esquimalt council approached the federal government for assistance.

With regard to the $104,800 grant made by the federal government towards the construction of a new Point Ellice Bridge, Mr. Skillings said the city council had approached Ottawa for assistance several years ago.

He said Mayor Claude Harrison went to Ottawa to ask for a grant but was unsuccessful.

"Now," he added, "they have agreed to make a grant. It seems to me it is a bribe."

CENTENNIAL PROJECT

Kiwanis Village Addition Proposed

A centennial project suggestion which "answers a need" and might find united backing by Greater Victoria municipalities was proposed by Oak Bay councillor Charles Munn Monday.

He called for erection of a block of additional homes for senior citizens adjoining Kiwanis Village.

Under the scheme, the finished project would not cost more than the $140,000 Greater Victoria could raise by matching a provincial 60 cents-per-capita grant.

Kiwanis Village would be asked to take over maintenance and operation.

BENEFIT ALL

Coun. Mann said such a memorial would benefit all sections of Greater Victoria, and aged persons of each area regardless of creed or politics. It would be a lasting memorial and of interest to visitors.

"Construction and occupancy could be completed during the centennial year and probably officially opened by the premier or our

Flying Lessons Main Ambition Of City Winner in B.C. Road-e-o

British Columbia's teen-age driving champ, 18-year-old Victorian David Wright, stands a "darn good chance" to win the national award and $1,000 scholarship in eastern Canada next month.

The Victoria High student won the Imperial Oil Trophy and $100 prize in Junior Chamber of Commerce annual safe-driving competition among local champions from 27 B.C. centres held in Vancouver Saturday.

Pete Littlewood, chairman of Victoria Jaycees traffic safety committee which sponsored David in both his Victoria and Vancouver wins, said:

"We're very proud of him. He's got a darn good chance down east."

JULY 20

National contest will be held July 20 in London, Ont.

And if he wins, it is likely he will aim his sights at flying and use the $1,000 scholarship to take lessons.

He is more than a good driver in name only.

David advises all drivers to use good judgment, know the road and always remember the other driver.

The new champion was also winner of the Victoria title a year ago and placed second in provincial competition.

CARELESSNESS

"The main reason for all the road mishaps is carelessness—just deliberate ignorance and abuse of the rules of the road," said David.

"I think the main trouble on the roads today is the failure to use good judgment in combination with a few basic rules. It really doesn't take very much to be a safe driver, just a bit of common sense and courtesy," he stated.

He feels teenage drivers have proven themselves just as roadworthy as their adult counterparts.

"I don't want to say that adults are generally better car operators than young people. Both can be dangerous and at the same time both can be equally conscious of their road responsibilities."

The B.C. champion doesn't own a "hot rod" and he doesn't see any evil in them as long as they are handled wisely.

Earlier, at Lunenburg, he told fishermen voters there must be an expansion of the market for Cana-

Informal outdoor meetings were the order of the day. Fifty people shook hands with him in the hamlet of Western Shore, 150 people met the Conservative leader in Chester and 250 turned out in Mahone Bay.

Tory Chief Hits Letter to Forces

HALIFAX (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker hit early today his appeal to Maritime voters to help elect a Conservative government June 10 at an end.

During a speech-packed swing through Nova Scotia's Annapolis Valley and along the province's south shore, Mr. Diefenbaker Monday produced a letter urging armed forces personnel to re-elect a Liberal government and "safeguard the future of our country."

The letter was printed on the letterhead of the National Liberal Federation over a facsimile signature of Louis S. St. Laurent, with no reference to him as prime minister.

H. Erskine Kidd, general secretary of the National Liberal Federation, said late Monday night in Ottawa that a Liberal party campaign letter was mailed to every Canadian serviceman, eligible to vote. He said the letters were distributed by Liberal scrutineers, who received a list of voters from electoral officers in charge of the service vote.

Telling about the letter in Liverpool, Mr. Diefenbaker said his party had been unable to obtain a mailing list of armed forces' personnel.

Later, in Kentville, the Conservative chieftain said "no more serious thing has been done in my political experience."

ORDER FROM ST. LAURENT

"What manner of conduct is this?" Mr. Diefenbaker asked 1,400 persons, largest audience to turn out to hear him in the Maritimes.

Heading for the Hills

THE young man in our house is beginning to assemble his gear for another summer with the Forest Service's youth training crews.

The letter came last week telling him to report back at Manning Park on July 2. He doesn't own Manning Park, but after his hitch there last year, you'd think he did.

I envy the young man. He has the kind of job I tried to get at his age and just coming out of high school. Even my friends Bob Hibbertson and Rollie Whyte couldn't work me in. There weren't many woods jobs in those days. And what there were called for more than 120 pounds of total inexperience.

I envy the young man in our house because I think every able-bodied kid in British Columbia ought to have a chance to work for a while in timber. He ought to learn how to swing an axe and I hope the young man in our house does no worse than peel the leather off his boot heel, as he did last year.

He ought to be able to get out and hold up his end with a work gang. He ought to be introduced to the maleness of a forestry camp. He ought to be adjustable enough to enjoy sleeping under canvas and probably on lumpy ground.

THE FEEL-OF B.C.
He ought to be able to take good, wholesome food and feel he's eating with the gods. He ought to be able to spend an evening by the creeks, or watching the stars that hang like Very lights above Manning.

He ought to be able to come home after his two-month stretch with the gang and have the feel of British Columbia inside him. If he can articulate it, so much the better. If he can't, just feeling the country will be enough.

I think it's reasonable to expect these reactions from a British Columbia kid—particularly if he hopes to keep on being a British Columbian. When he grows older he'll understand that his prosperity is built of wood.

The more he learns to appreciate the trees, the better it will be for him.

So he's going over the suggested list of essentials to take with him to camp. It's the same mimeographed form that came out last year and it has the same subtle, or unconscious, touch of maturity about it. Once more the authorities are telling their boys to take a shaving brush, and listing that item twice in the suggested kit. For a young person who whips off a nascent beard once every week or two with a borrowed Remington shaver, the repetition is flattering.

I suppose a youngster graduating from high school could stick around town in the summer and pick up a job that pays more in cash than the youth crews get.

THEY COULDN'T BUY IT

By my reckoning the boys in the forestry gangs are still better off. They'll never be more receptive than they are at 16, 17 and 18 to the influences of the woods. They'll never be able to absorb so fully the atmosphere of good, healthy, physical work outside and away from the pavements. If they're normal, they'll come to know that they can't buy what the experience gives them.

I'm not sure that the Forest Service is getting back 100 cents worth of work for every dollar it puts out in paycheques. But I've been told that it's getting back a lot more than it expected when the scheme was introduced a few years ago.

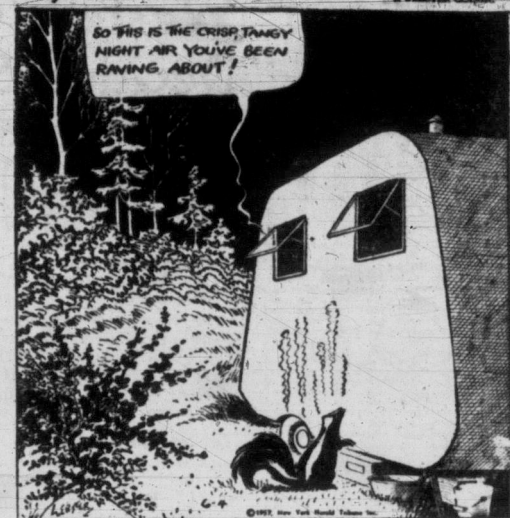

The boys are working on parks projects. They're working under a program that should give them a sense of accomplishment. To a certain extent—and within their own limitations—they're building parks. The Forest Service hopes they realize that point. For itself, the Forest Service thinks it is also building men. And men, to the Forest Service, can occasionally be more valuable than trees.

I don't know how fast the Forest Service hopes to make men out of boys, but the attitude is optimistic and positive. Otherwise it wouldn't call for two-shaving brushes in every kit. Or is it just recognizing the adolescent's unfathomable ability for losing things?

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Opinions of Readers On Shallots Sought

There is one thing certain about gardening: it never becomes a hum-drum routine because each season brings problems not previously encountered.

In the past week a new problem for many gardeners has been the tendency this season of shallots to make numerous flower heads.

A few flower heads always appear, but several gardeners report every plant producing a head.

The reason for such antics is not immediately clear, and the opinions of readers would be welcome. We know that the onion, like other vegetable root crops, is a biennial. It makes a bulb one year and produces flowers and seeds the next.

But in the case of shallots we find this true biennial character only when they are grown from seed. Bulbs from seed will bolt if replanted the following year, although they provide excellent shallots for culinary purposes the first season.

Plants grown from bulbs or cloves as they are called, usually do not show the same tendency to flower.

Whatever the cause, home gardeners are wanting to know what should be done about these flower heads.

Each flower head must be removed otherwise the food reserves will be depleted in the manufacture of seed and there will be no shallots to dig in late summer.

It is not necessary to remove the entire seed stalk, only the knob on the end of the stalk which contains the flowers.

Election Polling Now Under Way

OTTAWA (CP)—Voting in the June 10 federal election has started. It began in Egypt.

Amy headquarters said Canadian soldiers and airmen of the United Nations Emergency Force began voting Monday.

Temperatures were higher than 100 degrees.

More than 1,000 servicemen stationed in Egypt are eligible to vote. The polling booths are located at Rafah, Abu Suweir, Gaza and El Quasima.

One soldier cast his first ballot in a free election. He was L. Cpl. Josef Wanczek, a member of the 56th Canadian Reconnaissance Squadron and an underground fighter in Poland during the Second World War.

When a Child Swallows a Marble

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

A woman whose 5-year-old son the other day choked on a marble wonders what she should have done to him. All she could think of was to turn him upside down and thump his back. Fortunately, the boy swallowed the marble, but another child she knows choked to death on a large lump of food. For authoritative information, I turned to my friend, Dr. Paul H. Hollinger, of Chicago, who is an expert in getting things out of children's air passages and gutlets.

He said, "Almost all foreign bodies, whether in the larynx (voice box), the bronchus (one of the air tubes in the lungs) or the esophagus (gullet) will cause severe coughing, choking and gagging. Slapping the child on the back to dislodge the foreign body is potentially dangerous because if the object is in the bronchus it is possible for it to be dislodged and become stuck in the larynx." Then only a quickly-made tracheotomy would save the child. In this operation a cut is made into the windpipe just below the thyroid gland, below the Adam's apple.

Dr. Hollinger believes that it is best to keep the child as quiet as possible and rush him to the hospital. He says that marbles and jacks are particularly dangerous even when they are in the gullet. Bringing the child's head forward and lifting the chin at the same time, being careful not to tilt the head far backward, will improve the airway and that can help. Sometimes a large lump of food in the gullet will press on the windpipe and then only quick help can save the child's life.

One of the important things that parents of small children can do is to try to keep from them small objects which they can get into their windpipes. Often, I've had the creeps as I have watched a mother give her child peanuts, an almond, a bean, or an olive with a pit in it.

One of the worst things that women do is to give their baby a button basket to play with; this is just asking for trouble. It's a marvel to me that the infants who are constantly putting things in their mouths ever survive! The infant, if left alone with an olive, might get by all right, but when his brother hits him or tumbles onto him, down the windpipe it can go.

People should know that in every large medical centre there are men who are expert in looking into the windpipe or gullet with a lighted tube. They are expert in fishing out foreign bodies. They have special forceps with which to get hold of rounded bodies, like peanuts or marbles. They have a special apparatus to close safety-pins.

Commonly, an infant will swallow an open safety-pin and this must be closed before it can be gotten out. When something is stuck in the windpipe or gullet the quicker an expert gets at it the better. After a while, the lining of the tube becomes so swollen it is much harder to get at the thing and to get hold of it. If a child is strangling for air, a doctor at the nearest hospital can cut into the windpipe and save life.

Some of the Less Common Causes of Severe Backache

Many a person with an acute backache asks me what is wrong, and I cannot tell from a distance. I might not be able to tell if I could examine him with care. Many a person with a bad back wonders why X-ray films of the spine show no sign of disease. Also, an expert orthopedist, when called in, may examine the back and he may see nothing wrong. Then, if, as often happens, after a while the backache goes—with or without some manipulation or physiotherapy—the chances are it was an episode in a life-long tendency to arthritis or fibrositis.

But, says the patient, "Why did it come upon me at that particular time?" I suspect that often an acute backache, if not brought on by lifting or getting a crick, is due to an infection with a virus. I know I once got a terrible and paralyzing attack of lumbago due to the polio-like Coxsackie virus. This produces a disease often called "the Devil's grip," and it surely feels like that! In some cases, the virus affects the pleura which line the chest cavity and it may involve the sac in which the heart lies.

Years ago in Southern California, a man got a very severe backache, so bad that he entered a little hospital run by an irregular practitioner. After a few days of the terrible backache, he broke out with a malignant type of smallpox with black pustules all over his body. As a result, if I remember correctly, the practitioner, the sanatorium cook, and a number of people around the place came down with a severe form of smallpox and several died.

A few months ago I was reminded of this case when in came a previously perfectly healthy young woman with a severe low backache—the first she had ever had. The pain was so bad that for several nights she could hardly sleep. Aspirin could not touch it. What was the cause? Apparently, an unusually severe reaction to the vaccination against smallpox which she had had a week before the pain came. The "storm" soon quieted down and the woman has had no trouble since.

Western Oils Show Decided Strength

With moderate trading the order, the Toronto Stock Exchange was narrowly higher today.

The western oil section was generally strong as several higher-priced issues, including Home Oil A, Peace River, Pacific Petroleum and Pacific Petroleum, all showed gains. The feature of the day was the strength of Canadian issues, which showed gains of several points. Many miscellaneous leaders declined but Hudson's Bay was firm.

AT VANCOUVER fairly heavy trading brought little price change. Futures moved 20.50 at 67. Basco sold 11.00 at 50. Vantor moved 12.30 at 52.70.

AT TORONTO industrial gains were in a narrow range as refining oils and pipelines dipped. Trans Mountain led losers with a 3-point loss at 122.

INVESTMENT FUNDS (Provided by Carleton & McCarthy Ltd. and James Richardson & Sons)

AT NEW YORK among Canadian issues, McIntyre rose 3 1/2 and Distillers-Seagrams was up 1/4.

Among Canadian issues on the American exchange, Brazilian lost 1/4. Molybdenite and Preston East Dome each lost 1/4. Sapphire Petroleum rose 1/4 and Fargo Oil 3/16.

AT MONTREAL industrial moved within a fractional range today in active trading on the stock exchange.

AT LONDON, generally dull conditions prevailed on the stock exchange today.

New Ship Service in '58 Vancouver to Australia

LONDON (Reuters)—A new trans-Pacific link between Vancouver and Australia will be inaugurated next year by British Peninsular and Oriental Line, to supplement the services of its sister company, the Orient Line.

A statement issued by the two companies today said the 28,000-ton liner Himalaya will make a test run from Sydney, leaving March 21, and will arrive in Vancouver.

The service will start in England and end in Vancouver.

New Anti-Trust Laws to Follow Du Pont Ruling?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Monday's United States Supreme Court ruling calling for separation of Du Pont Company from General Motors Corporation has resulted in Senator Richard O'Mahoney (Wyoming Democrat) predicting that the high court decision will give fresh impetus to new anti-trust bills pending in Congress.

"I think this decision will be a memorable one in the history of the Supreme Court and the interpretation of the anti-trust laws," O'Mahoney said.

Common stock of the Du Pont Company made a quick advance Monday, then erased most of the gain.

Du Pont common closed at $197.50 a share, up $1 for the day.

General Motors common closed at $42.50 a share, up 25 cents.

Advertising Leader, Harry Saul, Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Harry Saul, 67, dean of Canadian advertising men who for more than 40 years was a newspaper advertising executive in Saskatoon, Regina, Winnipeg and Toronto, died Monday.

National advertising manager for the Thomson Newspapers for the last 2 1/2 years, he became ill a year ago although he was able to resume his job for a period last fall.

Do You Want Deficit Depression Financing?

In the thirties, Canada ran an annual deficit in the national budget to overcome hardship.

Diefenbaker has promised so many tax cuts and so much extra spending that he would have an annual deficit of 1.3 BILLION dollars in times of prosperity. Is this a return to the thirties?

Victoria Team Wins First Aid Contest

NANAIMO—Victoria and Cumberland teams have taken top honors in the 43rd annual field day of the mine rescue and first aid competitions at Cumberland.

More than 200 competitors entered the first aid contest.

Overall winner was T'Sable mine team, under Capt. J. Thomson.

3-Way Pact Signed On Budworm Attack

A three-way agreement has been signed by the provincial and federal governments and the B.C. Loggers' Association to wage war on the tree-destroying budworm on northern Vancouver Island.

A provincial order-in-council Monday described conditions in 150,000 acres on the Island as "extremely hazardous."

The actual spraying program would be carried out by the loggers' association and four-member companies concerned, Alaska Pine and Cellulose, Powell River Co., MacMillan and Bloedel, and Canadian Forest Products.

The federal government has agreed to pay one-third of the total cost, up to $100,000.

The provincial government will play a percentage of the remainder, based on the proportion of vacant Crown forest land sprayed to the total area.

Federal government entomologists are now in the area, surveying the extent of the infestation.

If it is determined practical to spray, Skyways Air Service Ltd. is ready to go ahead at short notice.

The budworms, which have already destroyed some valuable timber on the northern end of the Island, kills the trees by eating the foliage.

Piano Recital By 16 Students At Sooke Harbor

SOOKE—Vases of summer flowers decorated the marine room of Sooke Harbor House for the annual piano recital given by pupils of Madam Marie Lavertue Saturday.

The program was varied by vocal selections rendered by Mrs. Edith McLeod, accompanied by Mme. Lavertue.

An occasional lapse of memory or a false note did not deter the young artists, who performed with poise.

Those taking part were: Nanette Blouin, Sherry Roberts, Claude Lavertue, Lynn Roberts, Linda Moore, Armande Lavertue, John Wilkinson, Wendy Gibson, Paul Lavertue, Sally Brown, Anne Gibson and Rose Marie Lavertue.

Fewer Seek Jobs In Duncan Area

DUNCAN—The National Employment office here reported a decrease in job applications during May.

Little increase in the labor force is expected during the month, as the fire season hit the woods last week with noon closing Thursday at several logging operations.

B.C. Forest Products logging camp at Nitinat will close Friday after 31 years, coming to the end of timber to be logged. Employees will be placed in other company camps in the district.

The employment office said vacancies for loggers were fewer than in May last year, but any sudden demand for skilled woods workers would be hard to meet.

Duncan Cricketers In Double Defeat

Cowichan Cricket Club fared poorly on its home pitch over the weekend, dropping two matches to Victoria sides.

In a Victoria and District Cricket Association match Sunday, Derek Hyde-Lay batted up 65 runs to lead Incogs to a 96-run victory.

Incogs declared at 149 for five wickets and, with Malcolm Shanks taking seven wickets for 27 runs, dismissed the Duncan club for 53 runs.

Lacrosse Box To Be Built At Chemainus

CHEMAINUS — Although the community centre here has no lacrosse box yet, it has acquired enough equipment to enable youngsters to learn and play the game.

When Walter "Bus" Matthews, of Nanaimo, commissioner of the Inter-City Senior Lacrosse League, heard centre officials were planning to build a combination tennis court and lacrosse box, he arranged with the league to send two dozen official lacrosse sticks here.

Community Centre officials meet this week with representatives of local service clubs to discuss ways and means of raising money to build the proposed outdoor box.

It has been estimated it will cost approximately $2,600 to lay the asphalt surface, and the cost of an enclosing concrete retaining wall and box will be extra.

The box will be used for roller skating, lacrosse, tennis and outdoor dances, and in the winter it will be flooded for outdoor ice skating.

Murray McAlpine, another Shawnigan Lake entrant, took the senior boys' title with 15 points, Diane Mackie of Nanaimo won the senior girls' crown while the junior title went to Marian Vanaert of Duncan.

TOFINO — The trawler, Gloom, owned by Andy Charlie, was destroyed by fire Monday in a bay behind Edmunds Island while it was being repaired. No one was hurt.

Nanaimo Grooms Delegates To Legion Parley

NANAIMO—Mayor Pete Maffeo and Earle C. Westwood, minister of recreation and conservation, welcomed 400 delegates of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion whose convention sessions opened here Monday.

Close to 400 members with standards flying attended a memorial service at Nanaimo Cenotaph Sunday.

Shawnigan Junior Has Perfect Day; Wins Six Events

Malcolm Burke, Shawnigan Lake junior, provided all the thunder Saturday at the mid-Island high school track and field meet held at Duncan.

Burke captured first in each of the six events he entered to spark Shawnigan Lake to the meet championship. Despite the fact Shawnigan Lake was without an entry in the girls' events, they amassed 152 points, compared to 108 for Duncan-High.

Nanaimo placed third, with 58 points, and was followed by Ladysmith, 48, and Lake Cowichan, 44.

Burke, in capturing the junior boys' title, set records in the 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes, the broad jump and the discus event.

Murray McAlpine, another Shawnigan Lake entrant, took the senior boys' title with 15 points, Diane Mackie of Nanaimo won the senior girls' crown while the junior title went to Marian Vanaert of Duncan.

Lady Rose Going Back to Owners As Strike Settlement Hope Dims

VANCOUVER — Coast Ferries Ltd. officials said the Mv. Lady Rose will be returned to her owners today and ferry service to the Gulf Island suspended indefinitely following a breakdown in talks to end a deckhands' strike.

O. H. New, managing director of the company which operates the Lady Rose between Steveston and the Gulf Island, said the Seafarers' International Union has rejected an offer made by the company last Friday in an effort to end the eight-day walkout.

He said the vessel is chartered by the Coast Ferries Ltd. and would be returned to its owners'.

birth in Vancouver harbor. Since the strike started May 25, the ship has been kept in readiness to sail from Steveston.

"It would appear that all hope of a settlement is gone now," Mr. New said, "so we have no other course but to tie up the ship."

The union claimed wages were lower and hours longer aboard the Lady Rose than on comparable coastal craft, while the company said wage demands would cost $33,000 this year and necessitate a 33 per cent increase in passenger and freight rates.

Widow, 77, Wins Gay Week In Hollywood at Giant Bingo

BY AB KENT

It was her first win at bingo yet she took it in her stride as only the aged have wisdom to do.

Mrs. Mabel White, 77, of 1135 Empress—a little white-haired widow—won Victoria Kinsmen Club's "big surprise" at the club's sixth giant bingo in Memorial Arena Monday.

At a time of her choice she will spend seven glamorous days in the glitter capital of the world—Hollywood—for being picked at random from 3,000 eligible bingo players.

Called to the platform from the happy throng of 6,300 bingo players, Mrs. White stood, then sat, and stood again in the glare of spotlights as her surprise was detailed.

She smiled a little, her mouth opened and her bespectacled eyes sparkled. She stood with her hands folded in front of her, then confessed she was just a bit surprised.

While the rest of the arena

Labor Stresses Safety in Brief At Diesel Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress maintained today that public safety should be the overmastering consideration in deciding whether firemen are needed on freight and yard diesel.

The 1,000,000-member congress, in a brief for the royal commission dealing with the CPR-union dispute over the use of firemen, said it realized that absolute safety is unattainable.

"But the congress cannot emphasize too strongly its conviction that every reasonable safety measure must be taken even if the economic cost is high.

"A saving even of many millions of dollars may be very heavily purchased at the cost of a single human life."

NOW SHOWING "A Queen is Crowned"

Foreword by Christopher Fry
Spoken by Sir Laurence Olivier
It is a privilege to again present this glorious film of pagantry and tradition to our patrons for many reasons. First, it is a marvelous historical document preserved in all its intimacy and detail in beautiful Technicolor. The clarity of the photography makes you feel that you are actually in attendance on this memorable occasion. Secondly, it commemorates the fourth anniversary of the Coronation itself and the fifth year of Her Majesty's reign. This, it will enable many to relive again their own trip overseas. Lastly, it may be the last opportunity to see this film before it is withdrawn from service. (See J. Arthur Rank letter in our box office.) A great and glorious production.

CHANGES AFFECTING CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITIES

INCOME TAX EXEMPTION

A CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITY, contracted for by a taxpayer on his own life, may now qualify for Registration as a Retirement Savings Plan under the Income Tax Act.

Premiums paid on such a CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITY may now be deducted from earned income thus effecting a saving in personal income tax.

The amount you may deduct is subject to the following conditions:

1. If you are not now a member of a Registered Pension Fund or Plan, you may deduct Canadian Government Annuities premiums up to 10% of earned income, but not exceeding $2,500 a year.
2. If you are currently a member of a Registered Pension Fund or Plan, you may deduct the premium paid on a Canadian Government Annuity contract and the contributions made under your present Pension Fund, but the combined payments eligible for deduction cannot exceed 10% of your earned income, to a maximum of $1,500 a year.

LOWER PREMIUM RATES

Purchasers of Canadian Government Annuities after April 1, 1957, will benefit from reduced premium rates reflecting an increase in the interest rate.

For full information on several types of plans available, consult your DISTRICT ANNUITIES REPRESENTATIVE, or mail, postage free, the coupon below.

Sweeper Fine Says Engineer

No "professional hypocrite," Report will be made by J. O. municipal engineer John Graeme Leask, acting municipal engineer at the time the sweepers street-sweeper Monday as "an adequate machine."

The machine has churned up more ill-feeling than dust since it was rented from Esquimalt Service Ltd. last March without council's say-so.

"I am well aware that this machine is thought by some councillors to be in very poor condition and useless as a sweeper," Mr. Graeme said in his report to council.

ADEQUATE

"But I would be a professional hypocrite if I were not to inform you that this is not the case, and that as street sweepers go, this is an adequate machine."

He made two recommendations. Rent the Oak Bay sweeper for five or 10 days to get the streets into shape, and then on the regular basis of one day a week for the remainder of the year. Estimated total cost would be $2,600.

Mr. Graeme also asked for authority to "make it known in sales circles that a good second-hand machine is being sought for possible purchase this year or in 1958."

Council voted to give him authority for both moves.

According to the engineer's estimate, manual sweeping once every two weeks would cost $15,000 a year, and sweeper rental, $3,750.

Purchase of a small sweeper, similar to Oak Bay's, would cost $10,300, he said.

IN SECRET

Still not satisfied, Coun. J. E. Carey, leader of the war against the sweeper, called for a "full report before the bills are paid."

"The thing was all done in secret in the first place," he said.

ENGLAND ALMOST SURE OF TEST CRICKET DRAW

England was all but assured of a draw today in the first test cricket match with West Indies at Birmingham.

After getting a tremendous partnership from Peter May and Colin Cowdrey, England declared its second innings with 583 runs for four wickets, leaving the Indies only 2½ hours in which to get the 296 runs needed for a win.

With four wickets down, West Indies had scored only 32 runs.

May punished the Indies' bowlers without mercy as he batted up a great 285 not out and Cowdrey helped with 154 runs. The partnership between the two was worth 411 runs.

England scored 186 in its first innings and the West Indies seemed on the way to a win as they replied with 474.

Coast League Seeks Advice from Majors

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The Pacific Coast League went to the majors Monday for advice on how to survive if big league teams come to the west coast. The PCL directors also had a few survival suggestions of their own.

President Leslie O'Connor said the league leaders, in a closed five-hour session Sunday, unanimously agreed that their 32-year-old league will be doomed unless the majors help.

"You created our problem, in finding new cities to replace any lost teams. He said no political cities were mentioned. The PCL also wants a percentage of radio and television money from west coast major league operations, he added.

SOLARIUM DERBY

There is only one thing Capt. A. C. Cruchley would sooner do than go fishing—sell tickets for the Saanich Inlet-Times salmon derby at Saanich Inlet July 21.

Because he likes "to see children walking instead of going around on crutches," he has been one of the most efficient ticket sellers since the derby was launched in 1946. Thus it is no surprise that "Cap" is one of the first members of this year's Century Club—for those who sell more than 100 derby tickets.

Retired from the Canadian Army, Capt. Cruchley is 75 and has been a busy member of the angling club for 16 years, serving a term as president in 1959. He will normally pass up his usual fishing trips for only three things—storms, annual boat overhauls and selling tickets to help the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

His goal this year is 800 tickets. "Cap" has no phone in his home at 2550 Arbutus, but you may see him in town with his ticket book. Just ask more information about the derby and he will be happy to give derby or sell you a ticket or two.

OWNER OF DERBY CHOICE CAUTIOUS

Crepello Will Win, "With Luck"

LONDON (Reuters)—Multi-millionaire Sir Victor Sassoon, whose Crepello is a heavy favorite to win Wednesday's Derby, cautiously predicted Monday his handsome chestnut colt will win "with a lot of luck."

Sassoon told the annual Derby luncheon at London's Press Club he saw his 9-to-4 favorite Sunday and he looked "very well indeed."

This statement had the effect of quashing rumors that his husky three-year-old is not in good condition.

Odds on Crepello lengthened slightly at an odds callower Monday. The colt had been held at 2 to 1.

Other top favorites are Greek shipping magnate Stavros Niarchos' Pipe of Peace, second choice at 7 to 1, and the Aga Khan's Prince Taj, a 100-to-9 shot.

Queen Elizabeth also conceded a good chance with Doutelle, fifth choice at 100 to 8.

Besides hundreds of bookies, nervous about the £5,000,000 already bet on Crepello, thousands of Irish sweepstakes ticket holders await the result from Epsom.

An estimated 2,000,000 spectators are expected to jam the picturesque track about 25 miles from London for the granddaddy of all horse races, whose birth in 1750 was almost an accident.

Lord Derby, during a house party, began a discussion with his guests about the merits of certain three-year-olds. Bets were laid and a race organized to settle the matter.

War and peace, it has been going strong ever since, but its original £1,125 first money since has increased to £18,669. At the luncheon, Prince Aly Khan maintained that Prince Taj was the horse to beat. But he touted a long shot—Chippendale, 50 to 1.

DOWN TOURING CLUB, 2-0

Stars Shock Mighty Spurs

VANCOUVER (CP) — The proud Tottenham Hotspurs, England's famed soccer club, were humbled by the B.C. All-Stars 2-0 at Empire Stadium here Monday night.

A crowd of 9,164 cheered themselves hoarse at the defeat of Tottenham — their first in six touring matches in Canada.

The all-stars in the second half had the Tottenham defence desperately trying to clear their lines.

In the opening minutes of the game the English team danced with the ball and rarely extended themselves beyond half speed.

Alf Stokes, left-wing star of Hotspurs' 6-3 victory over Glasgow Celtic last Saturday, was the spearhead of the weak Tottenham attack.

Only centre-half John Ryden and right-half Danny Blanchflower showed traces of their ability. The stars also appeared lethargic.

Tottenham began to put on pressure in the second half with Blanchflower leading the attack. For an infringement against him, the Spurs were awarded an indirect free kick, but Stokes lobbed the ball over the stars' goal post.

B.C. began to control the game with left-half Doug Greig outstanding in defensive play.

Philley latched on to a long pass from McLeod and scored after he drew out Tottenham goalie Ron Reynolds.

Four minutes later at 30 minutes, McLeod elicited the game for B.C. with a 20-yard drive directly in front of the posts.

In the closing minutes a desperate Tottenham side struggled to overcome the deficit but continued to find the hard-working B.C. backs and goalkeeper Ken Pears too tough an obstacle.

Showing fine anticipation, Pears pulled off a number of spectacular saves during the game.

Buster Cairns and Dave Sibbald formed a stalwart fullback combination in front of Pears, and Dick Kenning was a particularly effective replacement for a tiring Cairns in the late stages of the match.

It was Tottenham's first North American defeat in two years.

Trades, Feuds Among Rumors

CLEVELAND (AP) — New York Yankees have lost nine of their last 15 games, they've been fined for playing night games in a plush saloon—and the panic button's been pushed. Trouble is, it wasn't the world champions who did the pushing.

Word leaked out Monday that the club had fined Hank Bauer, Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Billy Martin and Whitey Ford $1,000 each, and Johnny Kucks $500, for that fracas in a New York night club early in the morning of May 16.

The report no sooner was confirmed by the players than it popped.

1. A report that Bauer and Martin are on the trading block.

2. A report that manager Casey Stengel and general manager George Weiss are on the outs.

Both later denied there is friction between them.

HATE TO LEAVE

Bauer and Martin commented it's great to be a Yankee, with Martin adding, "I hope it does not happen. I'm afraid to think how it would feel to play against the Yankees."

Bauer has been mentioned as trade bait since before spring training. So has Martin, particularly since the night club incident which broke up his 29th birthday party.

Martin and Mantle are pals, and rumor has it the Yankee front office is afraid Martin may give Mantle some bad habits.

It was reported Monday that Martin, Mantle, Bauer, Ford and Mickey McDermott had been fined $250 each less than a year ago for missing a train in Boston. McDermott since has been traded to Kansas City. Another trade, naturally, could break up the remaining quartet.

Kucks, admitting he was fined $500, at first was thought to be among the $1,000 sufferers, prompting Stengel to observe "That poor boy oughtn't to be fined the same as the rich players."

Kucks' salary is estimated at $15,000. Berra hauls in $60,500. Mantle $60,000. Ford $35,000. Bauer $27,500. And Martin $21,000.

Only Mantle had a record resembling that of a high-priced player as the club opened a western tour against the Indians tonight—a sluggish five games behind the Chicago White Sox.

Shamrocks Aim At League Lead

Victoria Shamrocks, hoping to take over first place in the Inter-city Lacrosse League within the next two days, go after a share of the top spot at Kerrisdale Arena tonight.

With only rugged Tommy Druce on the injured list, the Rocks meet Vancouver Pilseners in a game which will break the current deadlock for second place.

Manager Whitey Severson, who expects to move into a tie with the front-running Nanaimo Timbermen with a win tonight, predicts the Rocks will be out in front after hosting New Westminster at Memorial Arena Wednesday.

With Druce out, Severson will shuffle his defence combinations, partnering Bill Bamford and Jack Howse on one unit in front of goalie Gordie Johnston and working Al Davies with Lew Ladness on the other blue-line unit.

Up front, the free-wheeling trio of Jack Bionda, Bob Dobbie and Peeewe Bradshaw will remain intact.

On the second line, Alan Gill will operate with fleet Don Don Sherry and Ed Kowalyk. Completing the attacking platoons will be the Jackie Northup-Bert Bertoia-Art Green threesome.

LADDER DERBY
No fish were weighed in Monday for the third weekly qualifying competition of the annual Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby.

One addition was made to the list of second-week qualifiers Monday as derby officials included Ken Campbell, who pulled in a nine-pound, 10-ounce fish at Deep Cove Sunday evening.

Fishing in this week's ladder will continue until Sunday night with the top 50 anglers gaining places in the derby fish-off in mid-August.

ANGLERS REAP GOOD HARVEST OFF OAK BAY

Jim Chapin reaped a heavy harvest early Monday morning as a run-of big spring salmon showed up in waters off Oak Bay.

Trotting between "The Gap" and Discovery Light, Chapin came in with springs of 30½, 27 and 10 pounds, taken on Strip Teaser used with eight-pound-test leader.

Other successful anglers were Dick Berry, who hooked a 32½-pounder off Strongside Island, and Len Humber, who reeled in 20 and 18-pounders off Discovery Island.

Kesselring Blows Hot; Leonard Also Qualifies

By The Canadian Press

Gay Brewer, a 25-year-old Kentuckian who has been a professional golfer a little more than a year, led all qualifiers Monday in sectional qualifying rounds for the 1957 U.S. Open championship. Brewer shot 67-66-133 over the two par-71 courses of the Kenwood Club at Cincinnati to lead the parade. Just one stroke behind were Gerry Kesselring, Kitchener, Ont., and Pat Schwab, Dayton, O. Kesselring fired 64-70-134 rounds at Park Country Club, Buffalo, while Schwab picked up his 134 at Cincinnati.

Don Fairfield, who paced a bulky field at Cleveland, and veteran George Fazio, who tied for the 1950 Open title but lost the playoff to Ben Hogan, shot 136s.

Only 162 golfers, out of an original entry list of 1,920, will be able to start in the championship at Toledo's Inverness Club, June 13-15.

Kesselring's sensational play on the par-72 Buffalo was five better than the second-best qualifier there could do. Kesselring was only able to win $25 last winter on the U.S. circuit.

SARAZEN IN
Another Canadian, Stan Leonard of Vancouver, won one of the two Pacific Northwest berths. Leonard had 68-73-141.

Al Balding of Toronto failed to qualify.

Three former champions passed the qualifying test. They were Lew Worsham, Gene Sarazen (twice, a winner) and Lloyd Mangrum.

Sam Snead was another qualifier at 141. It was only the second time in 20 years that Snead hadn't earned exemption from sectional rounds.

Five former champions, led by defender Cary Middlecoff, were exempt. The others were Ben Hogan, Jack Fleck, Julius Boros and Ed Furgol. Also on the exempt list were two-time amateur champion Harvie Ward, Jackie Burke-PGA titleholder, and Peter Thomson, three-time winner of the British Open.

Those who won exemption by their low scoring last year were Ted Kroll, Arnold Palmer, Ken Venturi, Doug Ford, Wesley Ellis, Jerry Barber, Billy Maxwell, amateur Billy Joe Patton, Bill Casper Jr., Pete Cooper and Freddie Haas.

There were two notable absences from the trials. These were Al's Pride, which raced in the Marine Stakes on Saturday and Senior Teddy which is a certain starter in the Queen's Plate. Senior Teddy beat Chopadette last season.

FIELD OF 12
A field of 12 or more will face starter Samuel Hall on Saturday afternoon.

Lyford Cay and Chopadette both were ridden by Avelino Gomez. There is a rumor that Eddie Arcaro will come from New York to ride one of the pair in Saturday's classic. However, Gomez, who is the contract rider for the Taylor stable, will have his choice of mounts.

Henry B. Good was a second while Flying Atom was a good third in the Plate trials. Lyford Cay paid $3 to win $2.80 to place and $2.30 to show.

Chopadette followed Bolitha and Everround for five furlongs, then went to the front and was an easy winner by 10 lengths. Lad Ator finished second while Count Teddy was third. Chopadette paid $3.30 straight, $2.10 to place and $2.10 to show.

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, JUNE 4, 13

... Times news editor dead

City Newsman 'Ed' McLean Dies Suddenly

British Columbia's newspaper fraternity lost a veteran of 22 years experience Monday evening when Edward "Ed" McLean, news editor of the Victoria Times, died of a sudden heart attack.

Mr. McLean collapsed while mowing the lawn of his home at 763 Hampshire Road.

He had had no previous warning of a heart condition.

Oak Bay police were called to the house and took him to Royal Jubilee Hospital but he was pronounced dead on arrival there.

Mr. McLean, who was 48, had been a resident of Victoria for four years.

Born in Glasgow he came to Canada in 1921 and first went to Prince Rupert.

KEY FOUNDER

Later he moved to Vernon where he began a career as a telegrapher with the Canadian National system.

From there he went to Kamloops with the CN and afterwards joined a brokerage firm as head wire man.

His introduction to newspapering came first when he established a shopping publication as his own venture.

In 1935 he joined the Kamloops Sentinel as editor and continued to put out that well-known interior weekly, now a daily, until he decided to come to the coast in 1953, except for a period of army service during the war.

BUSINESS EDITOR

He came to the Times first as business editor, later as telegraph editor and finally took over the news editor's post early last fall.

His service in the Second World War was with the army signal corps, and he was awarded the MBE.

While in Kamloops he belonged to the Elks' Lodge, and served a term as past exalted ruler.

In 1937 he married Lois Hoover of Kamloops and they had two children, Eddie and Mary.

Also surviving are Mr. McLean's mother, Mrs. Grace McLean, at the family home, and three brothers, George in Montreal, Neil in Prince Rupert and William in Kansas.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by McCall Bros.

Parrot Fever Hits Eleven In Duncan Area

First Outbreak Recorded on V.I.

What is believed to be the first outbreak of psittacosis, or parrot fever, ever reported on Vancouver Island, has 11 persons incapacitated in Duncan.

According to Dr. E. W. R. Best, district health officer with the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit at Nanaimo, the evidence is "circumstantial but strong."

It is contracted from fowl and can be fatal if untreated, but cures usually are certain and complete.

HIGH FEVER

Blood samples have been taken from the patients, and results cannot be known for at least two or three weeks, but all evidence points to the disease, which has the high fever and perspiration signs of many other illnesses.

It was only through informal discussion between medical men at Duncan that the outbreak was uncovered. It was found that five people from the same turkey farm were suffering similarly and at the same time, and when six more from elsewhere in the district were discovered, all connected with poultry, doctors felt sure of their diagnosis.

The disease passes easily from birds to humans, but contagion from human to human is rare. The Duncan cases are understood to be recovering.

Over $18,000 Collected For Solarium

Final figure in the Queen Alexandra Solarium's one-hour canvass of Greater Victoria Monday night is expected to exceed $18,000.

Bank of Montreal employees had not completed counting the money at noon today, but campaign chairman Miss Margaret Munn estimated "we'll go away over" last year's total of $18,000.

At last count, the campaign had reaped $17,000 and there was a "terrific amount" of money still untotaled, she said.

ANNOUNCEMENT

from Ottawa today names Phyllis Webb, Victoria-born poet, essayist and radio commentator, as one of six who have been awarded the latest series of Canadian government fellowships and bursaries.

Miss Webb's scholarship will take her to France for a year's study of modern literature. A year ago a book of her poems, "Even Your Right Eye," was published by McClelland and Stewart of Toronto. The writer recently left Victoria for Eastern Canada after spending several months visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary Webb, Central Avenue.

Sussexvale, Ste. Therese, New Glasgow, returns June 10, 4 p.m.

Lifeguards Demanded

Why Wait To July?

By PETE LOUDON

Police, health and school officials today joined in a request to Greater Victoria municipal councils for immediate lifeguard protection at district beaches.

Current warm weather has jammed lakes and seashore—but so far not one lifeguard has been hired.

Last Sunday, Saanich police were called to turn away cars at the Beaver Lake entrance. Cars were jammed in solid rows from the highway to the beach. Several thousand swimmers churned Beaver and Elk Lakes.

MOUNTING

Safety experts say the hazard is severest where crowds swim—and it's mounting rapidly.

Supervision is necessary if it is hoped to avoid repeating the grim statistics for this area in 1956—seven dead from drowning.

Four of these occurred in popular swimming areas.

Last year a single guard was posted at Thetis Lake for six weeks only, by the city.

Last year Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee hired two guards for Beaver and Elk Lakes on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays, July and August only.

They were aided by volunteer Boy Scouts.

INADEQUATE

A lake resident said today, "It is not enough. Do they think it impossible to drown in June, or on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday or Friday?"

Saanich Police Chief Bert Pearson said the police see the need for lifeguards and support the demand. "There is always a danger when the beaches are so crowded. The hot weather doesn't just come in July and August."

Mrs. Betty Sadler, concessionaire at Beaver Lake, also supports the request for lifeguards.

"There are more and more people using the beaches. We couldn't get any more cars in here on Sunday. We sure need lifeguards."

Chairman of the Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health, G. K. Sammon said:

ALL BEACHES

"We're big enough to provide this service on a wide basis. Statistics prove we should have guards on all these beaches."

He said he will ask the health board next Tuesday to carry a demand for more protection to each council, and to the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee.

Told of Mr. Sammon's intention, Coun. S. W. Brock, chairman of the latter body, said he won't wait for health board recommendations.

"I am definitely going to take it up Wednesday night. Personally, I think if we could prevent one drowning—let's have the guards."

There was only one death from fire last year yet Greater Victoria maintained eight fire halls on a 24-hour basis. Why shouldn't it try to approach the same level of vigilance with regard to drownings?

SUPERVISION

Greater Victoria School Board supervisor of physical education, George Grant, pointed out innuendoes are in constant use at beaches.

"If they are allowed they should be supervised," he stated.

He said he helped to rescue a child from drowning who fell from a tube at Willows Beach last year—another beach unprotected by guards.

Every inexperienced diver, each swimmer who takes a dip after a heavy meal, each child who tries "to make the float" by himself for the first time on a dare—is flirting with death.

PANIC

Every time a small child goes astray on a beach a mother knows a time of panic. Much of this could be allayed if a guard were stationed on a tower. The psychological effect would assure parents and be a caution to children.

Mayor Percy Scurrell looks to a time in the future when Thetis Lake will be developed as a money-raising venture and plenty of funds will be available for lifeguards and other services.

But this year "we have no money in the budget to extend the lifeguard service at Thetis."

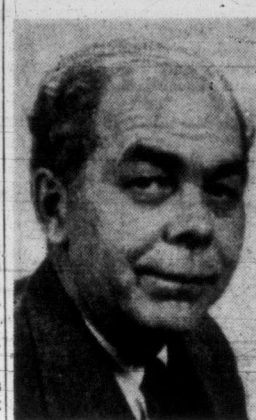

WATER SAFETY SHOW THURSDAY FOR AREA SCHOOL CHILDREN

A water safety demonstration will be held for 1,700 Greater Victoria School Grade 5 children at Crystal Garden Thursday morning.

Sponsors are Greater Victoria School Board and Swimming and Water Safety Committee of the Victoria Red Cross.

A boat will be used to show correct procedures for getting back in after tipping and how to paddle a boat ashore when it is filled with water.

There will also be a display of how to use one's own clothing to stay afloat and correct methods of water rescue.

Economics Run In Elliott Family

Dr. G. R. Elliott, and his daughter, Dale, 22, are now in the same line of work—but to different degrees.

Professor of economics at Victoria College, Dr. Elliott received a PhD degree in economics from the University of Toronto last Friday.

Miss Elliott graduated with a BA from UBC last month. In October she will take employment with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa.

Dr. Elliott has headed the economics department at the College here since 1949.

Miss Elliott is a graduate of the college and Oak Bay High School.

HISTORIAN'S VIEW

Keep Govt. House Just as It Was

Keep the new Government House as close to the original as possible and don't let it become a "monstrosity of glass bricks and chrome."

That was the plea made today by J. K. Nesbitt, chairman of the Victoria section, B.C. Historical Association.

Mr. Nesbitt took issue with Victoria architect John di Castri who urged Monday that the new mansion be a modern structure "reflecting the spirit of our times."

Mr. Nesbitt noted that both Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Premier W. A. C. Bennett said after April's disastrous fire that there should be as little change as possible.

NO MONSTROSITY

"The government, of which the premier's boss, should therefore, not permit its architects to inflict on the public a monstrosity of glass bricks and chrome," Mr. Nesbitt said.

"Modern-day architects, for a reason that is a mystery to most laymen, want to tear away all of the past. They want to create their own past while they are living; they will do anything to create their own niche in history."

Replying to Mr. di Castri's remark that the new building should not copy the "empty forms of the past," Mr. Nesbitt said:

"The Government House, destroyed by fire was anything but empty. It was a most livable home. All the people who stayed there through many years were enchanted by its warmth and friendliness."

If the White House in Washington, D.C., were destroyed, the American people would not allow a new building to look any different from the present building.

Mr. Nesbitt urged that the plans of architects F. M. Rattenbury and Sam McCure for the lost Government House, which are still in existence, be followed again.

The foundations were not destroyed by the fire, he said, and should not be torn up.

And there is "no excuse" to tear down the two stone towers behind the front entrance which were left standing.

"If all this is torn up it is waste, not only of the taxpayers' money, but of history," Mr. Nesbitt said.

Inquest Waived On Death Of Capt. Laird

An inquest into the traffic death of Capt. George A. Laird, 79, 2763 Winster, Langford, has been waived.

In view of a continuing RCMP investigation, coroner Dr. E. C. Hart said today there will be no inquest.

Capt. Laird died Sunday, nine days after he received multiple injuries when in collision with a car on Atkins Road, Sidney.

Eighteen-year-old Robert Rory Fraser, 1005 Dunford, Langford, already has been charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident and remanded without plea to Friday.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Who is entitled to vote in the general election next Monday?

A.—"Every person in Canada, man or woman ... is qualified to vote, if he or she:

"(a) is of the full age of 21 years or will attain such age on or before polling day;

"(b) is a Canadian citizen or other British subject;

"(c) has been ordinarily resident in Canada for the 12 months immediately preceding polling day."

This general list of qualifications is taken from the Canada Elections Act.

Q.—Is it harmful to eat the green part of potatoes or carrots which have matured above soil?

A.—Most careful housewives cut away such green parts. Food experts tell the Times the eating of those parts might cause a person to feel ill.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times." Editor's questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

MONTE ROBERTS

Usually when I attempt to write this column in the morning, the office is so noisy you can't hear yourself think. There's the clatter of typewriters and the clamor of phones, which form the normal background for any newspaper office anywhere.

But over and above this background, our shop in the morning usually vibrates with voices. Some of them talking business; most of them tossing alleged witticisms back and forth.

And my desk is located in such a way that I'm usually caught in the crossfire of persiflage between the city desk, news desk, and the other reporters.

Which is why, usually, you can't hear yourself think. But you can think this morning.

The typewriters clatter, and the phones clamor, and the process of putting out a newspaper goes on.

The cheery voices are missing, though, and there's an almost-visible pall of gloom over the news room.

Because Ed McLean has left us.

Ed went quickly and cleanly, the way any man would like to go, but he went far too soon.

He took with him one of the keenest news minds in the business; an analytical, retentive mind; a sharp mind leavened with a sense of humor.

More than that, Ed was a fine man to have around. How shall we say it? He was the kind of guy who left his cigarettes on the desk, not locked in a drawer.

And he was the kind of man who shared that fine mind, freely and generously, with anyone in the business—from ears-wet cub to veteran opponents on another paper.

The sorrow we have is a selfish sorrow. We aren't sorry for Ed; we're sorry for us.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Provincial health authorities are, as concerned as the city council over Gorge pollution. A letter was received by city parks department Monday stating "everything will be done to ensure against septic tank wastes draining into Portage Inlet from a proposed new subdivision on Christie Peninsula. The area is provincial unorganized territory."

The junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will hold a field trip to John Dean Park, Mount Newton, on Saturday afternoon. Members will meet at the Monterey parking lot on Douglas Street at 2:15 p.m. for transportation.

Esquimalt's newest councillor, W. E. A. Barclay, was named an alternate delegate to the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee at a council meeting Monday night.

William A. Evans, 2659 Douglas, was fined $35 when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to failing to report an accident.

An earlier charge of careless driving, to which he pleaded not guilty, was dismissed through lack of evidence.

Officers will be elected at a meeting of the Kipling Society at 317 Cook Street Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Royal Canadian sea cadets will perform at sunset ceremonies in front of the legislative buildings tonight at 8:30.

The Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health has been advised Victoria is still being considered as a site for a new provincial mental hospital.

W. T. McLaughlin of Victoria will conduct a government-supervised strike vote of 65 office and clerical workers at Yarrow's Ltd., following rejection of a conciliation board award by the company, the labor department announced today.

The workers are members of the Office Employees' International Union, local 15.

Management objected to a recommendation regarding union security and three weeks' holiday with pay after 10 years' service.

Department of Transport is today re-rigging the familiar Brothie Ledge navigation aid, off the Dallas Road waterfront at the foot of Dallas Street.

The light is being raised above the radar markers to give clearer visibility.

About three months ago, the characteristic of the light was changed from flashing white to flashing green, to avoid confusion with car headlights on Dallas.

Camp Gordon Head soldier Joseph Salmaitis was fined $50 in city police court today when convicted for supplying liquor to a minor.

The accused protested he handed 18-year-old Maurice Blondell, also of Camp Gordon Head, a bottle of wine in front of Johnson Street liquor store only to take to Salmaitis' quarters for him.

Police evidence said Salmaitis was asked at the time if he had given liquor to Blondell and if he knew the latter's age. He was quoted as saying he thought Blondell to be under age and "I guess I'm in for it now."

Colorful Summer Jewels Look as Cool as Sherbet

By PENNY SAVER

Costume jewelry, seems to me, just makes a person feel that much warmer in the summer and I'm all for keeping it to a minimum. But I've found some that made me think of lovely cool things like fruit drinks and sherbet which would look just right with a solid-toned linen dress, for instance.

It's made up of artificial gems that look a bit like moonstones in an assortment of shapes set in gold—necklaces, bracelets and earrings ranging in price from $1.75 to $4.

The summery colors were what caught my eye. There's a choice of ice blue, pink, orange, yellow, lime green, butterscotch, cherry red, and many more, some mottled, some clear.

ONLY A ROSE

I've spotted some new china that would be a real buy for a June bride or for any housewife who's tired of using bits and pieces of several sets for family meals.

This set is so nicely designed that I was surprised when I picked it up and found it was service-weight semi-porcelain (made in England) instead of the fine bone china I'd expected.

Each piece is modernistically square, with a single big red rose on the ivory background. That's all—not another bit of trim! Open stock, you can choose from a wide assortment of pieces at 95c for a cup and saucer, $1 for a large plate, and other prices are in proportion.

Or you can take advantage of a special offer and get a 20-piece set of the china with 12 pieces of crystal and 16 pieces of stainless steel cutlery, all for $24.95.

SWORDS SPEAK

Do you know the "Language of the Swords"? No, neither did I, but a jewelry store salesgirl assures me that a good many Victoria teen-agers do.

Seems the newest way among the younger set to indicate "going steady," "fancy free" and so on is to wear two miniature swords on a jacket or sweater. Position of the swords shows the wearer's status.

Swords are $1.50 a pair and come with complete instructions.

THE BETTER HALF

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Pregnant, Nursing Women Should Wear Special Bra

Many women start out at maturity with a pretty bustline but lose it by the time they are in their thirties or forties. There are many reasons for this.

This happens to women who nurse their children unless they take care to avoid it. The pregnant woman should wear brassieres designed especially for this time, bras that are built to support the extra weight which is natural during this time. Many expectant mothers fail to do this and have thus given their bustline one strike against beauty even before their child arrives.

Naturally this is even more important during the nursing period. You should also lie down whenever you nurse your baby. Unless there is some special reason otherwise wearing should be done very gradually.

Many women who do not have children find that their bosoms are becoming less attractive as the years pass. This is often due to wearing improperly fitted brassieres. The bra should support, not squeeze or flatten. Many of those garments which squeeze the bust into a too-small, pointed shape break down the tissues.

Many women are unhappy because of an extremely large bust. Often these women are overweight. When they lose the bust is one of the first places in which the loss shows.

The bust may still be out of proportion but it will be smaller. There is one exercise I have used in my classes which was to support the extra weight which is natural during this time. Here it is: Stand tall. Raise the arms forward, shoulder height and shoulder width apart, palms toward the ceiling. Swing the arms down and back.

This, too, is effective: Stand tall. Make large circles with the arms, crossing them in front of the body and pulling back as the arms move upward. Continue making large, smooth, complete circles. The pull-back is important.

If you would like to increase your bust measurement, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7 "Don't Have Round Shoulders and Flat Bust—Reverse!" Address Josephine Lowman in care of this ment which squeeze the bust

In Honor of The Bride

Bride-elect Miss Patsy Hurly was honored recently when Mrs. F. Gilbert, Estevan Avenue, entertained at a shower. Corsages of a red rose and lily of the valley for Miss Hurly, pink carnations for her mother, Mrs. T. Hurly, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. N. P. Hanna, and white carnations and mauve stocks for her grandmother, Mrs. W. Williams, were presented. A peach and pink decorated ship held the gifts. Those invited were Mrs. G. A. Williams, Mrs. J. McNeill, Mrs. P. J. Edwards, Mrs. R. Williams, Mrs. A. Martin, Mrs. J. W. Cox, Mrs. A. R. Cann, Mrs. W. Logie, Mrs. E. Paver, Mrs. H. McCaw, Mrs. G. Ivings, Misses Ella Harrison, Wendy Cox, Shirley Hanna and Donna Gilbert.

A miscellaneous shower to honor her niece, Miss Diane Graves, was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Stewart. A red carnation corsage was given to the bride-elect. Corsages were also presented to Mrs. R. G. Graves, Mrs. M. Brown, and the groom-elect's grandmother, Mrs. E. Badger. Others present were Mrs. O. Hudson, Mrs. G. Pynn, Mrs. S. M. Hale, Mrs. W. Pantler, Mrs. G. Sagers, Mrs. L. Attendants in Pastel-Tone Gowns With Saturday Bride

A quartet of attendants in honor, wore pale pink net with pastel gowns formed the bridal entourage for Miss Joan Campbell at her wedding Saturday evening to Mr. Melvin Charles Ellingson, which was solemnized by Dr. J. L. W. McLean.

White and yellow gladioli decorated St. Andrew's Presby. Church for the ceremony, and pansies tied with white ribbon marked the guest pews.

Organ music was played as the attractive bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Lorne Campbell. She is the daughter of Mrs. Campbell, 134 Menzies Street, and the late Mr. Douglas F. Campbell, and her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Ellingson, 512 Obed Avenue.

Her graceful princess-style gown was of chintilly lace and net misting out to floor length over satin. Sequins were embroidered at the neckline and waist. Her white net veil touched with sequins and pearls fell to fingertip length, and her jewelry was pearls. She carried roses and stephanotis.

Should a Widow Restore Maiden Name?

My husband died a year ago. Lately, a couple of my friends have asked why I haven't yet taken back my maiden name.

It didn't occur to me, but these people have started me thinking that maybe I should. I have three grown children. What is the correct thing to do?

Louise Davis

Answers:

The only time Louise Davis that it is permissible to return to a maiden name is when a marriage is annulled. Occasionally when a woman is divorced, she breaks the rule and asks the court to restore her maiden name, but, correctly, she can never prefix the Miss (although once in a while some will abandon the Mrs. in spite of it). If a divorced woman has any children, she should keep her former husband's last name, especially for the sake of the children. Why should you want to forsake the name of the man you married, unless you re-marry? You wouldn't revert to your maiden name any more than your children would abandon their father's name for that of your father.

Returning From London

Miss Margaret Nixon sailed from England last Friday aboard the Arosa Sun for Quebec City on her way home to Victoria after nearly two years in London. Miss Nixon will stop off en route in Ottawa where she will be guest of Miss Elizabeth Oliver, a former Victorian, and also plans to stop in Calgary to visit Mr. and Mrs. Ken O'Shea, and in Vancouver to see Miss Janet Bishop, all former Victorians. After spending the summer months with her mother, Mrs. F. R. Nixon, 1265 Roslyn Road, Miss Nixon plans to return to London.

Also returning shortly from London are Miss Anthea Stanley-Clarke and Miss Sheila Johnson, who will sail June 19 on the Saxonia to Montreal. They plan to drive across Canada from Toronto, arriving in Victoria in early July. They have spent the past two years in London and travelling on the Continent. Miss Nixon, Miss Johnson and Miss Stanley-Clarke shared an apartment in South Kensington, London.

Resolutions Touch Many Phases of Life

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's National Council of Women prepared today to pass on to the international council some of the problems it sees in this country.

Marriage trends, divorce, houses, health, immigration and professions came in for attention Monday as the national council opened a two-day conference preceding Wednesday's start on the International Council of Women convention, a 450-delegate affair representing 36 countries.

"Young people are marrying earlier and bachelors are older in the first few years," said a social welfare report. "People are moving more, province to province" and from rural to urban homes.

DIVORCE LAW CHANGES

"Divorce now is part of our way of life, whether we like it or not," said the report, listing an appeal for a divorce-law overhaul. The Swift Current, Sask., council, for example, asked for liberalized divorce laws as an antidote to runaway husbands and common-law unions.

The report spoke of "gaping gaps in Canada's social security program," wages lost due to temporary illness, assistance for the ordinary family facing medical expenses and help for families where the breadwinner dies.

Low-cost housing was reported progressing from coast to coast, said a housing-committee report. Arrival of about 17,000 Hungarian refugees had complicated things in the absence of government aid.

The national council's resolutions on various matters will be submitted to the International Council of Women.

Women's Freedom May See Family Life Suffer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Western society grants great freedom to women but family life may suffer as a result, warned Mrs. R. Smith of Toronto, National YWCA president, at the annual convention here today.

The problem of safeguarding and maintaining the structure of whole some family life must be faced and the YWCA will take up that challenge, she said.

"We should make certain that the great freedom which western society grants to women does not bring with it a loss to society in family life."

The present convention, she said, is attempting to discover ways in which the organization's program can help people build better lives for themselves.

Mrs. Smith told the delegates that representatives at the world council meeting left feeling "acutely aware that in Canada we do not work nearly hard enough to bring about understanding between various Christian groups."

A working paper on YWCA as a Christian lay movement had been outlined, and more and better-planned field visits had been suggested, the convention was told.

The 20th national convention of the YWCA opened here on Monday at the University of British Columbia.

More than 400 delegates are attending as well as guests from England, Australia, Korea and India. Chief aim of the convention is "to chart the course of the YWCA in this changed world in which we are living."

Cream Brocade Forms Bridal Gown

Rene Margaret Fisher was a picture bride in her wedding gown of creamy eggshell-toned brocade taffeta sweeping from a bustle to a full train at the back, as she entered All Saints Church, View Royal, Sunday afternoon for her marriage to Calvin Donald Putnam.

"Delicate insets of pleated illusion net emphasized the V-neckline of the gown, and the bridal veil was of the same fine net falling from a pearl head-dress. The bride carried a prayer book set with a cluster of deep red roses with trailing lily of the valley.

Rev. S. J. Wickens performed the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fisher, 3856 Carey Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Putnam, Bon Accord, Alta. The church was decorated with white snapdragons, and pink rosebuds and lily of the valley marked the guest pews. Organ music was played by Mrs. R. Ritchie, and Mrs. O. Brumwell sang "O Perfect Love." Mr. Fisher gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Joan Fisher, maid of honor for her sister, and Miss Carole Lawson, bridesmaid, were gowned in pale pink taffeta, waist-length, with flying panels at the back. They carried white taffeta muffs set with sprays of white carnations. Best man was Lloyd Putnam, and ushers were Mel Lohr and Charles Brumwell.

A reception followed at the Olde England Inn, at which Dick Wakeham proposed the toast. The bride's mother wore an iridescent blue taffeta gown with pink carnation corsage, while the groom's mother was gowned in pale blue lace with white carnation corsage.

For a honeymoon motor trip to Bon Accord, the bride wore lily of the valley.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other attractive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions to select to answer will receive attractive prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "Ask Andy" Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Edward Hilliard, aged 12, of Allentown, Penna., for his question:

What Is a Comet?

Were you disappointed in the little comet that visited our skies this spring? According to reports from oldtimers, a comet should be a showy fellow with a golden tail streaming over the sky—bright enough to be seen at high noon. We had to search the skies to find our modest visitor. But Andy says you can cheer up, chances are, you will yet see one of the really big show-offs. For almost everybody lives to witness a visit from at least one major comet.

Quite a few dim comets visit our skies every year. Most of them show up only in telescopes, and telescope pictures. Once in a while, the astronomer tells us of one large enough for our eyes to see if we look in the right part of the sky. The really big comets are rare, once or twice in a lifetime spectacles. They put on such a show that no one needs to point them out. They can be seen for weeks at a time, often in the daytime as well as at night.

Comets are members of our sun's family and not visitors from outer space. Like the planets, they travel a scheduled orbit around the sun. The planets travel in rough circles, keeping a fairly even distance from the sun. Not so the comets. Their orbits are long, thin ovals. The sun is just inside one narrow end of such an orbit. The other end is a U-turn, way out in space, maybe 3,000 million miles from the sun at the other end.

Some comets take hundreds of years to travel once around their orbits, some only a few years. Most of the trip is a dull, drab journey through space. A comet comes to life only when it swings around close to the sun. Only then do we see it in all its glory. The big shiny head looks like a brilliant star trailing its golden hair over the sky.

Of course, a comet is not a star. It is a bundle of dark, dead solid material. Like our planets, it shines only by the reflected glory of the sun. A comet's head is often far, far bigger than the earth. But sometimes the distant stars can be seen right through it. Experts think the head may be a bundle of loose stones and meteors. In any case, the earth weighs much more than many thousands of big comets.

The comet wears its golden train only when it visits his majesty the sun. The pressure of the sun's rays is believed to force dust and gases back from the visitor. Hence, the golden trail always streams away from the sun. As the comet makes its U-turn around the sun, it sometimes goes close enough to pass through the outer corona gases of the sun. At this point the comet is travelling at a terrific speed. Yet the tail swings around still faster, always streaming away from the sun.

When the U-turn is finished, the comet is moving away from the sun and the tail streams ahead of it. The light fades as distance grows between the comet and the sun, the tail disappears and soon the bright head of the comet is a dim blur. Soon it will be no more than a loose bundle of dark stones chugging wearily around its lonely orbit between the planets.

Andy sends a Hammond's Ambassador World Atlas to Don Trantow, age 14, of Seattle, Washington, for his question:

How Big Is the Solar System?

The outside edge of the Solar System would be the orbit of the distant Planet Pluto. So far as we know, this is the most remote planet from the sun which is in the centre of the system. Pluto's average distance from the sun is about 3,670 million miles. From side to side, the Solar System, then, must measure about twice this distance. But 7,340 million miles is hard to imagine without some translation.

Let's translate it into travel time. We will figure out how long it would take us to cross from side to side of the solar family. Travelling nonstop at 100 miles an hour, the journey would take us about 8,200 years! What a trip! Even that is hard to imagine. So let's try to imagine a scaled down model of our Solar System.

The role of the sun shall be played by a huge yellow pumpkin two feet wide. The earth is a large pea. Jupiter, the largest of the planets, is an orange and distant Pluto is played by a very, very small pea. With the members of the Solar System scale down to such small bodies, a correct model including all the spaces between them would require a field, three and a half miles wide and long!

Marine Field Trips Planned For Summer Biology Course

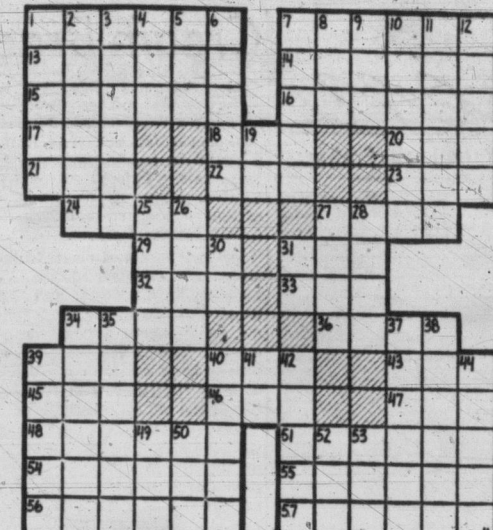

Persons enrolling in a marine biology course at Victoria College summer school this year will spend two full days each week in lectures, laboratory work and field trips.

The trips will include a wide range of marine habitats around Victoria, the Pacific Biological Station at Nanaimo, salmon traps at Sooke, and open Pacific Ocean shoreline at Jordan River.

The seven-week course opens July 2 at 8 a.m., and will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8 a.m. and 1.15 p.m. Fee is $30. Course will be taught by Prof. W. Gordon Fields, head of the college biology and zoology department; Arthur R. Fontaine, instructor in biology and zoology; and Mrs. Marion D. Fontaine.

It will be of special interest to graduate and undergraduate students whose courses have not included observation of living marine organisms, teachers of biology and general science, and anyone with professional or general interest in the sea and marine creatures.

Britons Told Canada Country of Extremes

LONDON (AP) — A British journalist just back from a tour of Canada warned Britons Sunday to "think several times" before they join the queue to emigrate.

Liam Madgabhann wrote an article in the Labor newspaper "The People under the headline 'The Big Emigration Letdown.' He quoted figures showing that Canadians bought 8 per cent more consumer goods last year than ever before and that personal incomes in Canada rose by $2,000,000,000. Then he added: "Although the figures produced by the finance boys may read like a gold strike report, I urge you to think several times before you rush to join the bandwagon.

"Because Canada is not only the land of the great big dollar. It's also the land of the great big racket.

"It is a land where stark poverty faces you on one side of a river and affluence on the other. It is a land of lavish houses and unpainted shacks. Of extremes and of peril—for the emigrant. But above all, the great dominion is the toughest place on earth if you haven't got a job. And getting a job out there can be hell's own job."

New Closing By-Law Ordered in Esquimalt

Esquimalt Council agreed Monday night to extend shop closing times "as fully as the law allows" when the new Municipal Act goes into effect July 1.

City solicitors McIlree & McIntyre were authorized to draw up a by-law covering shop closure in the municipality.

The act allows municipalities free range in extending hours of operation in service stations, service garages, stations, garages, bakeries and drugstores.

It also permits sale of fresh fruits, dairy products, soft drinks and confectionery items in shops after regular closing hours.

EXEMPT WHOLLY

Municipal councils can exempt "some classes of business, wholly or partially as it wishes," municipal clerk J. W. Allen advised council.

He recommended that the by-law exempt specified shops "as fully as the law allows" so that any prosecutions would be confined to the wording of the act rather than the by-law.

"It would also avoid numerous requests from certain groups for leniency," he said.

The city council has passed a similar by-law and Oak Bay is still in the discussion stage.

Japanese PM Scores U.K. on Red Trade

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters) — Premier Hiroburo Kishi of Japan today criticized Britain for its "regrettable" decision to relax the embargo on trade with Communist China. He said Britain's decision had broken the harmony of the free world, but Japan would make efforts to amend the discord between the United States and Britain.

Benny Hooper Returns to School

MANORVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Benny Hooper, scamp who disappeared back to school Monday for the first time since his rescue from the bottom of a well. The seven-year-old second-grader returned after doctors said his recent ordeal "apparently left no ill effects."

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

The Akela Club will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of "Akela" Winnie Bennett on Ardmore Drive, Sidney, Limited transportation will be leaving Scout headquarters at 7.30 p.m. and all are asked to meet at the junction of Bayview Road and Ardmore Drive on the West Road at 8 p.m.

Third Victoria and Chinese Troops spent the long weekend holding a "preservation" camp at the property of Fred Snider on Beaver Lake Road, for which they say "thanks." Five patrols took part under Scoutmaster George Bennett. Every boy did his own cooking for the five meals and all slept under the stars. Some excellent work was done, and the Scouts learned a great deal. As part of the expedition the boys had to pack all their own equipment and food, and hike in for 3 1/2 miles.

Duncan-Chemung District — Ten patrols from the district spent the weekend camping on the Grattan-Kitson property. This camp was run on camporee style and the patrol competed against a standard. During the whole time spent in camp they were under observation and graded according to the manner in which they carried out their task. Grades range from the highest with an "A" down to

Your Social Credit Candidate for Victoria

The Liberal candidate for Victoria, in defence of the government, has made statements during this campaign that should be examined by every voter. Here are a few that have been attributed to him.

THE LIBERAL STATEMENT: "We tax only for the country's needs."

THE FACTS: In the budget speech on March 14, the Finance Minister reported revenue surplus and non-essential appropriations last year totalling $637 million.

THE STATEMENT: "Old Age Pensions are a Provincial responsibility."

THE FACTS: Ottawa is collecting $400 million this year from Canadian taxpayers for old age pensions.

THE STATEMENT: "Tight money has stopped this rise in our cost of living."

THE FACTS: Since the "tight money" policy was introduced a year ago, the cost of living has gone up more than three points, a greater increase than we had in the three-year period from 1953 to 1956. Also in April, 1957, the cost of living increased by four-tenths of a point.

This advertisement inserted by the Victoria Social Credit Federal Campaign Committee.

a rate of nearly five points per year.

THE STATEMENT: "There is adequate housing in Canada."

THE FACTS: The cost of housing in Canada has increased by 35 points since 1949 and the average Canadian cannot afford adequate housing. There are 25,000 persons in Vancouver alone living in illegal suites because they are unable to get adequate housing. The present rate of home construction is about one-third of what is actually needed.

THE STATEMENT: "Social Credit Income Tax exemptions will not help."

THE FACTS: With excess taxation of $637 million last year, a reduction in income taxes is not only practical—it is imperative.

THE STATEMENT: "Higher Old Age Pensions mean higher taxes."

THE FACTS: By reducing wasteful spending on such departments as the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, culture, the National Film Board, and by eliminating wasteful and useless experiments in obsolete weapons of war, sufficient money can be saved to pay for the Social Credit Old Age Pension program.

THE STATEMENT: "Such statements cannot be allowed to pass without question. I have challenged the Liberal candidate to explain them and to defend them in a public debate before election day."

I await his answer.

Government Buys 3 Lots From Safeway

The provincial government has acquired three lots south of the Legislative Buildings, bordering on Menzies and Michigan, for future expansion.

The property was sold by Canada Safeway Ltd. for $34,601.

Safeway also sold a portion of a fourth lot but retained its small store at the corner. The company had purchased the property three years ago with the idea of building a big supermarket, but could not get the required city zoning approval.

Work Minister W. N. Chant said today the land was needed for the "master plan" for future expansion of government buildings.

There are two or three old residences on the property now that will be utilized immediately for overcrowded departments.

It has not been decided what permanent buildings will be erected on the site in the future.

It is believed that Safeway will also sell the store property it has retained to the government sometime within the next few years.

U.S. Officially Joins Military Baghdad Pact

KARACHI (AP)—The United States Monday joined the military committee of the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact.

The action was only a step short of full membership in the five-nation alliance. The U.S. already is a member of the pact's economic and counter-subversion committees.

The pact's full members are Britain, Pakistan, Iran, Turkey and Iraq.

Third Anti-Bomb Show Staged by Japanese

TOKYO (AP)—About 100 Japanese marched back and forth in front of the British embassy today, singing "peace" songs and carrying placards protesting the British nuclear weapon tests in the Christmas Island area. It was the third such march since Britain set off her second H-bomb Friday. About 400 students demonstrated Saturday and 25 Monday.

20 U.K. GUARDSMEN COLLAPSE ONE BY ONE

LONDON (Reuters)—Guardsmen fainted and traffic in the busy centre of London was plunged into chaos Monday during a rehearsal for the annual trooping of the color on Queen Elizabeth's official birthday next week.

The muggy, 76-degree heat was too much for 20 guardsmen standing stiffly at attention under their tall bearskin busbies. One by one they slumped, rifles and bayonets clattering to the ground.

Fainting is an offence in the strictly disciplined guards. Offenders are punished with extra parades.

NORTH AMERICA'S MOST MODERN SIX—Ford's road-proven Mileage Maker Six is the most powerful, thirstiest six-cylinder engine offered today by any manufacturer—delivers 144-Hp. of brilliant performance. Because it is the only true short-stroke design it squeezes more miles out of every gallon of regular gasoline—delivers more punch per piston-stroke than any competitive "six"! This was proven in the recent "1957 Mobilgas Economy Run" when a Ford Fairlane Six led all other makes with 22.2 miles per (U.S.) gallon of gas!

SILVER ANNIVERSARY V-8's—For 25 years straight Ford has made the world's best-selling eight. This year you have an even wider choice of ultra-modern powerplants—all are electronically "mass-balanced", while operating under power, for maximum smoothness. There's the big, silent, deep-block 190-Hp. Ford V-8, the famous 212-Hp. Thunderbird V-8; or if you prefer, the new high-compression 245-Hp. Thunderbird Special V-8—the engine that helped Ford set 458 world speed and endurance records at Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah.

PICK YOUR BRAND OF GINGER—
SIX or V-8, THE GOING IS GREAT!

Ford's nailed-to-the-road ride makes you feel snug, safe and secure! Why? Because Ford's new heft and strength, new lower centre of gravity, revolutionary new chassis design all combine to produce the smoothest, steadiest-riding car you've ever relaxed in. It's Even-Keel Ride, the most wonderful ride on the road!

Ford's get-up-and-get-going performance is guaranteed to raise anyone's spirits! Why? Because it puts the fun back in driving! You can prove it to yourself in just about five minutes in any of Ford's 19 models, with a record-smashing Silver Anniversary

V-8 engine or a Mileage Maker Six—North America's most modern "Six"!

Ford's tuned-to-tomorrow styling is a show-stopper wherever it's seen! Why? Because it's a lot more than skin-deep. In the new kind of Ford, beauty goes hand-in-hand with quality, right down to the smallest detail, right down to the last nut and bolt!

Make your next stop your Ford-Monarch dealer's showroom... take a few exciting minutes to sample the new kind of Ford's great gift for GO!

PLYWOOD IS CHEAPER

For many of those building jobs because large panels go on quickly, less labor, less nails. Weatherproof grade means all exterior uses. Plywood construction is stronger, more rigid. Use plywood wherever you need a smooth top and/or underlayment. Right now you get extra value in plywood grades—many of them, in fact, are slightly overpriced. Plywood and paint can be brought up to an excellent finish. Buy now. Special Police To Help Fight Hoodlum Bands

(From CP Dispatches)
CRESCENT BEACH—A force of almost 100 auxiliary police will help fight roaming bands of hoodlums such as engaged in rioting and cursing here Saturday night.

A graduating class of 92 civil defence police, trained by the RCMP, will be formed into a special patrol that will reinforce the RCMP.

A police constable and juvenile required treatment after Saturday's brawl when 50 shouting hoodlums who had gathered for a gang fight turned on two RCMP officers who tried to stop them. More police and local residents joined the fray. Six youths were fined up to $175 each Monday in police court and the magistrate warned that future trouble would bring jail sentences. Some juveniles were also charged.

OFFICE WORKERS STRIKE
VANCOUVER—Ten women and three men walked off their jobs at National Paper Box Ltd. here Monday in what is believed to be the first strike of office workers in Vancouver.

TRAFFIC RECORD
TRAIL—Another weekend without traffic accident here has raised to 900 the number of days this southeastern B.C. city has gone without a traffic fatality. The last motor death here occurred in December of 1954.

WAGE TALKS DEADLOCKED
VANCOUVER—Wage talks between representatives of 6,000 laborers and a number of construction companies are deadlocked.

Conciliation boards are being ordered in disputes between five locals of the Laborers' Union and the General Contractors' Association and Heavy Construction Association.

Herb Fleisher, international representative of the Laborers' Union, said General Contractors offered 2,500 building laborers a 32-cent hourly boost—25 cents in wages and seven cents in health and welfare benefits.

The men were ready to settle for a 40-cent boost similar to that offered carpenters, he said. A 12-cent offer from Heavy Construction Association was rejected by 3,500 construction laborers.

HOUSEWIVES LOSE FAITH
PENTICTON—The B.C. president of the Canadian Association of Consumers says coast housewives have lost faith in Okanagan fruit because of high prices and poor quality.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mills of Victoria Monday told the provincial royal commission inquiring into the B.C. fruit industry that housewives on the coast would like to support the industry.

"We deplore the generally low returns reported by growers, particularly in view of the very high retail prices we are asked to pay for Okanagan products when they are available. Experiences with these high prices without comparable quality have led consumers to favor the products from across the border."

Gideons to Place 278 Bibles in City Hotels

Some 278 Bibles will be placed in Victoria hotels within the next few days. Joseph Hitchen, president of Victoria branch, Gideons International in Canada, said today.

The branch has exceeded its quota of $2,730 for Bible distribution by $10, he said.

Mr. Hitchen, formerly secretary, was elected president at a recent meeting.

Executive members are A. H. Richards, vice-president; Duigan A. Burden, chaplain; Dick H. Goodwyn, secretary, and A. B. Young, treasurer.

Mrs. Joseph Hitchen is president of the ladies' auxiliary; Mrs. Dick Goodwyn, vice-president; Mrs. A. B. Young, chaplain; Mrs. K. Jennings, secretary, and Miss Dorothy Cronk, treasurer.

He was the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Meldram, a pioneer family here.

Educated at South Park and Victoria High Schools, he joined the Canadian National Carbon Co. Ltd., Vancouver, in 1922, and rose to be advertising manager of the Canadian corporation. In 1938 he joined the American company's advertising staff and was made advertising manager of National Carbon Co. Inc. in New York City in 1940.

WINNIPEG RIFLES
Later that year he returned to Canada, joined the Canadian army, went overseas in 1941 and won command of the Royal Winnipeg Rifles.

Col. Meldram was the officer described in a dispatch from the Normandy beachhead which said: "Troops in command of a lieutenant-colonel from Victoria had to fight past five major casements and 15 machine-gun positions."

A high British officer declared "there has been no greater military feat."

ATHLETE

In his youth he was a well-known athlete, and was an outstanding oarsman with the James Bay Athletic Association. He is survived by his wife, Gwen, at home; a daughter, Mrs. J. A. McPherson, and two grandchildren in Kelowna, and a sister, Mrs. Donald Dana, Victoria.

An only brother, Ralph, died here in April, 1954.

Following a cremation service in Toronto, the ashes will be brought to Victoria Thursday by Mrs. Meldram.

A private funeral will be held at Haywards' on Friday at 1.15 p.m. and burial will be in the Ross Bay family plot.

Hospital Insurance Just 'Bait For Suckers' Coldwell Charges

REGINA (CP)—CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell has labelled the proposed federal hospital insurance scheme as a "feeble" step in the right direction designed to "bait the hooks for the suckers" in an election year.

He also told a party rally Monday night that he considers Canadian co-operation with the United States over construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway will lead to "trouble." His hour-long speech was heard by 700 persons in the 1,200-seat Exhibition Auditorium.

Mr. Coldwell also forecast his party can sweep Saskatchewan's 17 federal seats next Monday and increase its representation from Manitoba.

He renewed CCF demands for a South Saskatchewan River dam, proposed the establishment of a capital gains tax, charged the Liberals with enabling two Trans-Canada Pipe Line Company officials to make $1,700,000 in tax free stock manipulations within three months, and called on the Canadian government to lead the way in stopping nuclear weapon tests through the United Nations.

He criticized the hospital insurance scheme as a "retreat" from promises the Liberals had made in the past.

"After 38 years of promises, the Liberal government is providing for only one-ninth of a national health plan," he said. "At that plan."

Cost of Living Hits Record High

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs in Canada reached a record high level during April, pushed up mainly by increased prices for miscellaneous goods and services.

The consumer price index, yardstick of living costs, edged up two-tenths of a point in the month, the bureau of statistics said today.

The bureau reported that the index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, stood at 121.1 at the end of April, compared with 120.9 at the end of March. A year ago the index stood at 116.6.

The food index was unchanged at 116.7 and the clothing index unchanged at 108.5, but the catch-all index of "other commodities and services" jumped to 126.3 from 125.1.

In the latter group prices advanced for a wide variety of items including theatre admissions, streetcar and bus fares, haircuts, newspapers, beer and automobile insurance rates.

The household operation index decreased to 119.2 from 119.4 as a result of seasonal declines for coal which were partially offset by small scattered increases for home furnishings and household supplies.

The shelter index rose to 134.2 from 134.0 as both rent and home ownership components advanced fractionally.

U.K. Papers Predict Cuts in H-Bomb Tests

LONDON (AP)—Two London newspapers say Britain will cut short her current hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific after her next and third blast. It had been understood the government planned to touch off four explosions.

Government officials refused to confirm or deny the reports by The News Chronicle and the Labor Party's Daily Herald in dispatches from the test centre at Christmas Island. The reports say the tests will be curtailed because of: 1. Pressure brought by the Labor opposition in Parliament to keep radioactive fallout to a minimum. 2. Success of the two tests.

Prime Minister Macmillan,

while refusing to accede to demands to call off the Christmas Island tests, has said they will be held to a minimum.

Answering a question in the Commons from Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell, Macmillan said the fallout from Friday's bomb was "insignificant."

Gaitskell referred to press reports that 2,000 American scientists have signed a petition asking for an international agreement to stop the tests.

Macmillan replied "I have seen references in the newspapers to this appeal by these scientists. The reports do not say that it is supported by any new evidence."

All Political Parties Given Service List

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay said today representatives of all the main political parties contesting the June 10 federal election received lists of voters in the armed forces.

Asked to comment on a statement by Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker that his party was unable to obtain a mailing list of armed forces personnel, Mr. Castonguay said: "If the statement attributed to Mr. Diefenbaker is correct, then Mr. Diefenbaker has been misinformed."

(In an interview at Halifax Mr. Diefenbaker declined to amplify his statement that his party had been unable to obtain a list of armed forces personnel.)

Mr. Castonguay said the lists were prepared at each military establishment by the commanding officers, on orders issued some weeks ago by national defence headquarters. Five copies of the nominal rolls showing the rank, name and place of ordinary residence for voting purposes were sent by each commander to special returning officers in charge of the service vote at Edmonton, Ottawa, Halifax and London, England.

TOLD TO REPORT

Mr. Castonguay said the party representatives—two each for the Liberal and Conservative parties and one each for the CCF and Social Credit parties—were told to report May 27 to the special returning officers.

Whatever nominal rolls that had been received from various military establishments were distributed to the party representatives at the same time. Others were distributed in the same manner as they became available. No restriction was placed on the use of the lists.

While the lists did not give the postal address the names were grouped by military establishment so that a letter sent to a serviceman giving his rank, name and camp or base would reach him.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in Liverpool, N.S., Monday night that a letter printed on the letterhead of the National Liberal Federation over a facsimile signature of Prime Minister St. Laurent was sent to servicemen urging them to re-elect a Liberal government. He said his party was unable to obtain mailing lists of armed forces personnel.

H. Erskine-Kidd, general secretary of the federation in Ottawa, said the letters were distributed by Liberal scrutineers who received a list of voters from the special returning officers.

Diefenbaker 'Sour' St. Laurent Chides

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today he has invited, but not ordered, Canada's armed forces to vote for the return of his government June 10.

The Liberal leader said it was John Diefenbaker's "sour disposition" which had caused the Conservative leader to suggest the armed forces had been "ordered to vote for the Liberals."

Japan Given Right to Try U.S. Soldier

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States agreed today to let a Japanese court try an American soldier charged with killing a Japanese woman.

By the decision, the U.S. drops any claim to the right to try William C. Girard by court martial.

A joint statement by State Secretary Dulles and Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson said the agreement was made after consideration by a joint U.S.-Japan committee, under terms of the status of forces agreement between the two countries.

The U.S. decision follows trouble in Formosa, where a somewhat similar case resulted in riots less than two weeks ago. In the Formosa incident a U.S. court martial freed a soldier who killed an alleged Chinese peeping tom.

Mrs. Naka Sakai, 46, was shot while scavenging scrap metal at a U.S. Army firing range Jan. 30. The accusation under which the 21-year-old American faces trial carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

Vancouver Plans $700 Million Redevelopment

VANCOUVER (CP)—A possible $700,000,000 redevelopment of Vancouver's downtown area will be studied by a company which has been formed here.

The Dominion Redevelopment Corporation was formed by the Downtown Business Association to investigate recommendations for revitalizing the city centre.

"The company is a non-profit group," said Stanley V. Smith, director of the business association.

The scheme calls for a 21-year gradual rebuilding of the downtown area with more open space and parking facilities.

Union Says Action Only Recourse Left

VANCOUVER (CP)—The International Woodworkers of America announced today it has rejected the majority report of a conciliation board and will take a strike vote among its 32,000 members on the British Columbia coast.

IWA president Joe Morris said the district policy committee had recommended rejection of the conciliation board report, which proposed a four-month truce in negotiations. He said a strike vote would be held soon, but did not announce the date.

Mr. Morris said: "Strike action is the only means of backing up our demands."

The union is seeking a 20 per cent pay increase and other benefits in the new master contract. The present contract expires on June 14.

The conciliation board majority report was handed to the provincial labor department by board chairman Gordon Wismer, K.C., and employer nominee George Robson.

Union nominee Robert Smeal charged Monday that it was "illegal" on grounds that only the minister of labor can sanction an extension of negotiations.

Mr. Smeal refused to file his minority report and asked Labor Minister Lyle Wicks to order the board to reconvene and bring in a "proper" report.

Campaigning Bennett 'Anxious'

Meanwhile, Premier Bennett said today he is willing to give full consideration to representations from both the operators and the International Woodworkers of America to avert a strike in the Coast lumber industry.

The premier, now campaigning on the prairies, said in a telephone interview from Saskatoon that "the cabinet is anxious that conciliation be reached."

"Our actions all along," he added, "have shown that we wanted to get the parties together."

The chairman and one member of a three-man conciliation board have recommended in their majority report a five-month truce in contract negotiations. Robert Smeal, union nominee on the board, charged that the report was "illegal" because only the minister of labor can sanction such an extension.

The union, representing 32,000 Coast woodworkers, is demanding a 20 per cent wage increase and other benefits. The present master contract covering the industry expires June 14.

20 Per Cent Raise Big Issue at Stake

These are the issues in the rest periods, hourly work in International Woodworkers of America-coast forest operators, dispute which affect 12,000

Operators say "no" to this, woods workers on Vancouver Island, 32,000 throughout B.C.: The union wants a 20 per cent raise and the 157 operators won't grant any increase.

The IWA wants a union shop and the operators refuse.

The union wants various changes, such as Boxing Day, the entire forest industry could as a holiday, mill swing shifts, be closed down.

Both Becks in Bad; Senior Denies Guilt

From Times Wire Services

Both Dave Becks were in the news today and both were in trouble.

In Tacoma, Dave Sr., embattled president of the Teamsters' Union, who said he should not be judged until he had his "day in court," had it before U.S. District Judge George H. Boldt on income tax evasion charges.

He pleaded not guilty. In Washington, Dave Jr. faced contempt of Congress charges after he had refused, 130 times, to answer questions on his relations with the Teamsters' Union and its payroll.

Facing similar charges in Washington was Joseph McEvoy, the elder Beck's nephew by marriage, is charged with cheating the government out of $56,420 in 1950 income taxes.

The federal grand jury indicted him May 2 also charged Beck with helping prepare a fraudulent tax return in the same year for Teamsters-Joint Council No. 28 Building Association.

The trial of the paunchy, bull-necked labor leader is expected to begin this fall. If found guilty the maximum penalty would be five years in prison and a $10,000 fine on each count.

In Washington chairman John L. McClellan of the senate rackets committee today ordered contempt of congress proceedings started by the committee staff after a fruitless questioning of Dave Beck Jr. and McEvoy.

Beck Jr. invoked the fifth amendment 130 times in refusing to tell committee investigators whether he got nearly $65,000 in salary and expenses from the union.

McEvoy invoked the fifth amendment 90 times on similar questions. Both men refused to say even whether they knew the senior Beck.

McClellan told the two balking witnesses that he doubted that "the founding fathers... ever conceived such flagrant abuse would be made of the fifth amendment" as has been made of it since this committee started its hearings and particularly today.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.), a committee member, predicted that the committee would vote a contempt citation and that the Senate would approve it. If the committee recommends contempt citations and the Senate votes them, they will go to the justice department for prosecution. Maximum penalty upon conviction is a year in jail and $1,000 fine.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Creator-Father, Thou wonder worker of the universe, we thank Thee for our high calling to be Thy fellow workers. Keep us ever sensitive to the price-less privilege of unselfish service in a needy world. Help us in our various vocations to labor as faithful servants of Thine, bent on making our work count for the common good; in Christ's name. Amen.

THE BALD BOY—CHAPTER TWO

He Joins Hair Tonic Anonymous

By ELMER WHEELER

My pride began to hurt me as fast as my hair left me.

After all, being fat is often a sign of affluence. Fat comes from just plain overeating, and you need money to eat.

But loss of hair. That's a sign of neglect, deterioration, or just plain hard luck.

People began to notice me noticing my receding hair, and they'd come up with cracks so familiar to future bald boys.

I conditioned myself to such remarks. I could laugh them off, but when another baldy put me into his class with a "Hi, Baldy," then I blushed clear up to my remaining hair.

After all, I wasn't bald, was I?

Yet? I'd show them. I had whipped calories, I'd whip falling hair. I started my campaign the usual way of future Bald Boys, with hair tonics.

That's the first and simplest start of balding boys.

I'd saunter into the drug store and if no one was looking, I'd pick up a bottle of the shelf and read the label, especially the guarantee.

Then if no customers were around, I'd tell the druggist my brother was losing his hair, and

Withdrawal Forecast
On Columbia Offer

Deane Finlayson, B.C. Progressive Conservative leader, said Monday night Fisheries Minister James Sinclair probably won't renew the federal offer of help on the Mica Creek power project.

Speaking on a CBC free-time provincial affairs broadcast, Mr. Finlayson said, "So bitter have become the premier and the minister of fisheries towards each other it is highly unlikely Mr. Sinclair would renew his offer to help at Mica Creek—If in fact there ever was a genuine offer in the first place."

Mr. Finlayson criticized Premier Bennett for not declaring himself for or against private development of the Columbia River. He said "one thing is certain, however, if Mr. Sinclair is re-elected, Mr. Bennett will certainly not accept federal aid."

He said the best way of assuring the co-operation necessary to develop B.C. hydro electric power was to elect a Conservative government.

Discriminatory actions by the federal government against B.C. were listed Monday night by Noel Bell, Social Credit candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich:

The unfair schedule of freight rates which makes it cheaper to ship goods from Montreal to Vancouver than from Vancouver to Calgary;

Dyking grants are made to the eastern provinces but have been cut off from B.C.;

Interference in the matter of the Arrow Lakes (Kaiser) storage dam where Ottawa had to pass a new act to give it the power to stop this development, which was not contrary to the BNA Act;

Tight money, which does most harm to British Columbia because this province is developing three times as fast as the rest of Canada.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, Conservative candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich, scoffed Friday night at federal government proposals to build a new ferry landing site on the Saanich Peninsula.

The transport department is still studying the plan and nothing is definite, he told an election meeting at Sidney.

"No plans are drawn... there are no various schemes to consider... there is not the slightest chance of harbor de-development in Sidney this year," Gen. Pearkes said.

He forecast that the development will never materialize if the government is only going to spend the $500,000 mentioned in its announcement.

Elmore Philpott, Liberal candidate seeking re-election in Vancouver South federal riding, said Monday night there are two "sound" reasons why the Liberals decided on only a $6 a month increase to old age pensioners this year.

Speaking on a free-time television political broadcast, Mr. Philpott said the government had $133,000,000 with which to increase social security benefits in Canada, and it "simply could not all go to the old age pensioners."

He said the money was shared among 4,500,000 Canadians who receive federal benefits annually. That included family allowance, disability pensions, and allowances for veterans, war widows, and the blind.

One reason for the government's action was that all recipients of federal benefits had an equal moral claim to an increase, Mr. Philpott said. Another was that it was not possible for Liberals to dip into this year's federal surplus to pay higher old age pensions.

best government we've ever had."

He warned his audience against the "wild and fantastic promises" of the opposition parties, "which are just intended to get your vote."

The Social Credit proposal for $100 monthly old age pension is "just a lot of nonsense."

"When you're out of power, you can put down any figure you like."

Every dollar spent by either the federal or provincial governments comes out of the people's pockets, Mr. Campney said. "They (Social Credit) want to call the tune, and we pay the shot," he said.

The defence minister noted that Social Credit billboards proclaim that "we want a better deal from Ottawa."

"How much more do they want?" he asked.

The federal government last year took out $293,000,000 from B.C. in tax revenue and spent $373,000,000 in the province. The provincial government should be grateful for the treatment it receives.

"Performance speaks far beyond mere promises," Mr. Campney said in outlining the achievements of the Liberals.

The Conservative party is a one-man show, he said. Its national leader, John Diefenbaker, is the "lone ranger from the prairies."

In his introductory remarks, Mr. Fraser said splinter parties such as Social Credit and the CCF are "undesirable and could be disastrous."

The candidate said he had been told soon after his nomination that he had no chance to take Esquimalt-Saanich, but he was now convinced it was quite probable.

what did he suggest. The druggist knew I knew he didn't believe me, but being a salesman he proceeded to show me a few bottles.

"This one has alcohol in it," he'd tell me, "and it will kill things. This one has sulphur in it. This one has in it, well, you read that word. That's in it."

ON AND ON he'd go each time I came in, always with less hair than the time before. I became his best under-the-counter customer. I had his bottles running out of my medicine cabinet, and over my hat band, not to mention the wife's favorite chairs.

The "Lost Weekend" had nothing on Elmer's bottles.

I'd become a tonic addict. I'd rub the stuff on each morning. I gave myself a 230-second hair rub. On Saturdays, I did the same thing at noon. On Sundays the wife prohibited the stuff until after church services.

I'd often enfold the wife right out of the house. Once even my hairy sheep dog sniffed twice, looked at me through the mop of hair over his eyes, then moved out into the yard.

"You smell like a Barber's College," my wife would snap at me, as she opened a window even on real cold days.

WHEN I TOLD the druggist about this, he showed me new brands just on the market. "No kerosene in them," he said. "In fact, 10 minutes after you use one, you won't smell no more."

So, as with noontime vodka drinkers, I found I could use the stuff and no one would be the wiser. It wouldn't take their breath away.

At least I had accomplished one thing. Tonic camouflage.

One day I started on the hair salves. Some friend of a Bald Boy friend had said he found some thing they used in Germany years ago for mange, and it was now on the American market for males. Guaranteed, too.

I tried it. The maid threatened to quit after trying to wash the stuff off the pillows of my bed. That ended the great German experiment fast.

I READ about a new one from Japan. It had a record of curing some 99 Mongolians out of 110. Well, that's just what the news service reported, and as with all pre-baldies I grasped the faintest hopes.

Time went on. So did my hair loss.

My dreams were to again have a Robert Taylor widow's peak. But if I kept on, I'd have a widow. My wife was a good shot.

Seeing hair show up (and I swear it laughed at me incessantly) drove me nuts. The comb became a phobia.

I'd pretend not to notice the hairs it gleefully tugged out at each use. I'd look the other way but my eyes always cheated on me and I'd see the few hundred more brown hairs hanging in the teeth on the malicious comb.

What is worse, I got to counting the hairs.

Hecklers Noisy
But St. Laurent
Talks Them Down

By MEL MORRIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Montrealers, who like their politics loud and boisterous, gave Prime Minister St. Laurent a typical send-off Monday night at two meetings winding up the Quebec leg of his election campaign.

The prime minister was besieged by hecklers and interrupted frequently. About six persons were forcibly ejected from one meeting and one man was detained by police.

The worst outbreak was in the traditionally Liberal east end, where between 5,000 and 6,000 persons packed into the Show Mart for the meeting. About 50 youths, described by Liberal party officials as members of an ultra-nationalist group, began heckling when the prime minister rose to speak and continued the interruptions until they were escorted outside by building attendants, party supporters and police.

Mr. St. Laurent was greeted with cries of "When do we get our Chateau Maisonneuve?" and "What about a national flag?" he was forced to stop his speech four times.

The prime minister was about halfway through his address when the hecklers were told to leave. They scraped their chairs and shuffled their feet but most left peacefully. About six went to the back of the hall but refused to leave the building. Police and uniformed attendants grabbed them by the arms and pushed them outside. The man detained was described as the leader of the group.

"Good Night" Hecklers 'Sleep Well'

Mr. St. Laurent did not appear flustered by the interruptions. At one point, when attention strayed from him to the hecklers, he said:

"Oh, I don't think there's much going on there. I think we'll just go ahead with the meeting."

As the hecklers left, he called after them: "Goodnight and sleep well."

The heckling at the prime minister's first meeting of the night was good-natured. There were a few cries of "Tell us about Trade Minister Howe," and "What about closure," referring to the procedure adopted by the government to end debate on the pipeline issue.

"Well," replied the prime minister, "I don't know if you think you should apply closure to me, but I assure you I'm going to apply it to myself pretty soon."

Mr. St. Laurent said that "prior to the pipeline debate the Conservative opposition said they would attempt to block passage of the bill by every means at their disposal."

"Does any Canadian think that a government which aspires to the confidence of a majority of the population should simply abandon any proposed legislation that a minority of members of Parliament feel it is in their political interest to oppose?"

TORY MOVE

He said the closure rule was introduced by the Conservatives under Sir Robert Borden "and I am very sure that if the Conservative party ever happened to win power that they wouldn't abolish the closure rule."

The prime minister said the attack by the Progressive Conservatives on Canada's external

Prosecution of Mounties Set;
Golf, Concerts Threatened

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Mounties Baseball Club will be summoned to appear in police court here next Monday for playing baseball on Sundays, city prosecutor Stewart McMorran said Monday.

He said he had issued instructions for the summonses which will be based on games played here on May 5 and May 12.

Mr. McMorran said a summary of the evidence gathered by two detectives at Sunday's Pacific Coast League double-header between Mounties and Hollywood Stars would be forwarded to the Attorney-General for more flats to prosecute.

The announcement by Mr. McMorran followed a statement Monday by Attorney-General Robert Bonner that the city prosecutor had no choice but to proceed with prosecution.

The Mounties' booster club plans to request flats from the attorney-general's department to prosecute other Sunday activities, including golf and Vancouver Symphony Orchestra concerts.

Flats were issued by the attorney-general's department two weeks ago for May 5 and May 12 Sunday games, and Mr. McMorran has consistently declined to comment on the delay in further legal action.

Questioned Monday, he said: "It's quite obvious there was a reason." He declined further explanation.

Attorney-General Bonner said: "I do not think the city prosecutor has any choice in the face of wilful persistence."

Mounties' club president Nat Bailey said the team—the PCL leader—intends to keep on playing Sunday ball.

Heading for the Hills

THE young man in our house is beginning to assemble his gear for another summer with the Forest Service's youth training crews.

The letter came last week telling him to report back at Manning Park on July 2. He doesn't own Manning Park, but after his hitch there last year, you'd think he did.

Stott

I envy the young man. He has the kind of job I tried to get at his age and just coming out of high school. Even my friends Bob Hibbertson and Rollie Whyte couldn't work me in. There weren't many woods jobs in those days. And what there were called for more than 120 pounds of total inexperience.

I envy the young man in our house because I think every able-bodied kid in British Columbia ought to have a chance to work for a while in timber. He ought to learn how to swing an axe—and I hope the young man in our house does no worse than peel the leather off his boot heel, as he did last year.

He ought to be able to get out and hold up his end with a work gang. He ought to be introduced to the maleness of a forestry camp. He ought to be adjustable enough to enjoy sleeping under canvas and probably on lumpy ground.

THE FEEL OF B.C.

He ought to be able to take good, wholesome fare and feel he's eating with the gods. He ought to be able to spend an evening by the creeks, or watching the stars that hang like Very lights above Manning.

He ought to be able to come home after his two-month stretch with the gang and have the feel of British Columbia inside him. If he can articulate it, so much the better. If he can't, just feeling the country will be enough.

I think it's reasonable to expect these reactions from a British Columbia kid—particularly if he hopes to keep on being a British Columbian. When he grows older he'll understand that his prosperity is built of wood.

The more he learns to appreciate the trees, the better it will be for him.

So he's going over the suggested list of essentials to take with him to camp. It's the same mimeographed form that came out last year and it has the same subtle, or unconscious, touch of maturity about it. Once more the authorities are telling their boys to take a shaving brush, and listing that item twice in the suggested kit. For a young person who whips off a nascent beard once every week or two with a borrowed Remington shaver, the repetition is flattering.

I suppose a youngster graduating from high school could stick around town in the summer and pick up a job that pays more in cash than the youth crews get.

THEY COULDN'T BUY IT

By my reckoning the boys in the forestry gangs are still better off. They'll never be more receptive than they are at 16, 17 and 18 to the influences of the woods. They'll never be able to absorb so fully the atmosphere of good, healthy, physical work outside and away from the pavements. If they're normal, they'll come to know that they can't buy what the experience gives them.

I'm not sure that the Forest Service is getting back 100 cents worth of work for every dollar it puts out in pay cheques. But I've been told that it's getting back a lot more than it expected when the scheme was introduced a few years ago.

The boys are working on parks projects. They're working under a program that should give them a sense of accomplishment. To a certain extent—and within their own limitations—they're building parks. The Forest Service hopes they realize that point. For itself, the Forest Service thinks it is also building men. And men, to the Forest Service, can occasionally be more valuable than trees.

I don't know how fast the Forest Service hopes to make men out of boys, but the attitude is optimistic and positive. Otherwise it wouldn't call for two shaving brushes in every kit. Or is it just recognizing the adolescent's unfathomed ability for losing things?

Life's Darkest Moment

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Opinions of Readers On Shallots Sought

There is one thing certain about gardening: it never becomes a hum-drum routine because each season brings problems not previously encountered.

In the past week a new problem for many gardeners has been the tendency this season of shallots to make numerous flower heads.

A few flower heads always appear, but several Jack gardeners report every plant producing a head.

The reason for such antics is not immediately clear, and the opinions of readers would be welcome. We know that the onion, like other vegetable root crops, is a biennial. It makes a bulb one year and produces flowers and seeds the next.

But in the case of shallots we find this true biennial character only when they are grown from seed. Bulbs from seed will bolt if replanted the following year, although they provide excellent shallots for culinary purposes the first season.

Plants grown from bulbs or cloves as they are called, usually do not show the same tendency to flower.

Whatever the cause, home gardeners are wanting to know what should be done about these flower heads.

Each flower head must be removed otherwise the food reserves will be depleted in the manufacture of seed and there

Ottawa Gives Details for Vote Recount

OTTAWA (CP)—Any candidates seeking a recount of ballots after the June 10 election will have to wait a week, maybe longer.

First of all, the service vote must be added to the civilian count. That will be made known a week after election day.

The candidate must also wait for the formality of the official count, not only of every ballot cast in the constituency, but of the vote totals listed on a slip of paper inside each ballot box.

The returning officer in each constituency sets the date for the official count, held no earlier than a week after the election. It could be considerably later in large ridings where there is difficulty and delay in assembling ballot boxes in a central place.

Within four days after that, candidates can appear before a judge and ask for a recount.

If there is no recount, the returning officer formally declares the winner within a week after the official count.

Election Polling Now Under Way

OTTAWA (CP)—Voting in the June 10 federal election has started. It began in Egypt.

Army headquarters said Canadian soldiers and airmen of the United Nations Emergency Force began voting Monday.

Temperatures were higher than 100 degrees. More than 1,000 servicemen stationed in Egypt are eligible to vote. The polling booths are located at Rafah, Abu Suweir, Gaza and El Quasima.

One soldier cast his first ballot in a free election. He was Lt.-Col. Josef Janeczko, a member of the 56th Canadian Reconnaissance Squadron and an underground fighter in Poland during the Second World War.

When a Child Swallows a Marble

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

A woman whose 5-year-old son the other day choked on a marble wonders what she should have done to him. All she could think of was to turn him upside down and thump his back. Fortunately, the boy swallowed the marble, but another child she knows choked to death on a large lump of food. For authoritative information, I turned to my friend, Dr. Paul H. Hollinger, of Chicago, who is an expert in getting things out of children's air passages and gutlets.

Dr. Alvarez

He said, "Almost all foreign bodies, whether in the larynx (voice box), the bronchus (one of the air tubes in the lungs) or the esophagus (gullet) will cause severe coughing, choking and gagging. Slapping the child on the back to dislodge the foreign body is potentially dangerous because if the object is in the bronchus it is possible for it to be dislodged and become stuck in the larynx." Then only a quickly-made tracheotomy would save the child. In this operation a cut is made into the windpipe just below the thyroid gland, below the Adam's apple.

Dr. Hollinger believes that it is best to keep the child as quiet as possible and rush him to the hospital. He says that marbles and jacks are particularly dangerous even when they are in the gullet. Bringing the child's head forward and lifting the chin at the same time, being careful not to tilt the head far backward, will improve the airway and that can help. Sometimes a large lump of food in the gullet will press on the windpipe and then only quick help can save the child's life.

One of the important things that parents of small children can do is to try to keep from them small objects which they can get into their windpipes. Often, I've had the creeps as I have watched a mother give her child peanuts, an almond, a bean, or an olive with a pit in it.

One of the worst things that women do is to give their baby a button basket to play with; this is just asking for trouble. It's a marvel to me that the infants who are constantly putting things in their mouths ever survive! The infant, if left alone with an olive, might get by all right, but when his brother hits him or tumbles onto him, down the windpipe it can go.

People should know that in every large medical centre there are men who are expert in looking into the windpipe or gullet with a lighted tube. They are expert in fishing out foreign bodies. They have special forceps with which to get hold of rounded bodies, like peanuts or marbles. They have a special apparatus to close safety-pins.

Commonly, an infant will swallow an open safety-pin and this must be closed before it can be gotten out. When something is stuck in the windpipe or gullet the quicker an expert gets at it the better. After a while, the lining of the tube becomes so swollen it is much harder to get at the thing and to get hold of it. If a child is strangling for air, a doctor at the nearest hospital can cut into the windpipe and save life.

Some of the Less Common Causes of Severe Backache

Many a person with an acute backache asks me what is wrong, and I cannot tell from a distance. I might not be able to tell if I could examine him with care. Many a person with a bad back wonders why X-ray films of the spine show no sign of disease. Also, an expert orthopedist, when called in, may examine the back and he may see nothing wrong. Then, if, as often happens, after a while the backache goes—with or without some manipulation or physiotherapy—the chances are it was an episode in a life-long tendency to arthritis or fibrositis.

But, says the patient, "Why did it come upon me at that particular time?" I suspect that often an acute backache, if not brought on by lifting or getting a crick, is due to an infection with a virus. I know I once got a terrible and paralyzing attack of lumbago due to the polio-like Coxsackie virus. This produces a disease often called "the Devil's grip," and it surely feels like that! In some cases, the virus affects the pleura which lines the chest cavity and it may involve the sac in which the heart lies.

Years ago in Southern California, a man got a very severe backache, so bad that he entered a little hospital run by an irregular practitioner. After a few days of the terrible backache, he broke out with a malignant type of smallpox with black pustules all over his body. As a result, if I remember correctly, the practitioner, the sanatorium cook, and a number of people around the place came down with a severe form of smallpox and several died.

A few months ago I was reminded of this case when I came a previously perfectly healthy young woman with a severe low backache—the first she had ever had. The pain was so bad that for several nights she could hardly sleep. Aspirin could not touch it. What was the cause? Apparently, an unusually severe reaction to the vaccination against smallpox which she had had a week before the pain came. The "storm" soon quieted down and the woman has had no trouble since.

New Ship Service in '58

Vancouver to Australia

LONDON (Reuters) — A new trans-Pacific link between Vancouver and Australia will be inaugurated next year by British Peninsular and Oriental Line, to supplement the service of its sister company, the Orient Line.

A statement issued by the two companies today said the 28,000-ton liner Himalaya will make a test run from Sydney, leaving March 22.

The service will start in England and end in Vancouver.

New Anti-Trust Laws to Follow Du Pont Ruling?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Monday's United States Supreme Court ruling calling for separation of Du Pont Company from General Motors Corporation has resulted in Senator Richard O'Mahoney (Wyoming Democrat) predicting that the high court decision will give fresh impetus to new anti-trust bills pending in Congress.

"I think this decision will be a memorable one in the history of the Supreme Court and the interpretation of the anti-trust laws," O'Mahoney said.

Common stock of the Du Pont Company made a quick advance Monday, then erased most of the gain.

Du Pont common closed at $197.50 a share, up $1 for the day.

General Motors common closed at $42.50 a share, up 25 cents.

City Newsman 'Ed' McLean Dies Suddenly

British Columbia's newspaper fraternity lost a veteran of 22 years experience Monday evening when Edward, "Ed" McLean, news editor of the Victoria Times, died of a sudden heart attack.

Mr. McLean collapsed while mowing the lawn of his home at 763 Hampshire Road.

He had had no previous warning of a heart condition.

Oak Bay police were called to the house and took him to Royal Jubilee Hospital but he was pronounced dead on arrival there.

Mr. McLean, who was 48, had been a resident of Victoria for four years.

Born in Glasgow he came to Canada in 1921 and first went to Prince Rupert.

KEY POUNDER
Later he moved to Vernon where he began a career as a telegrapher with the Canadian National system.

From there he went to Kamloops with the CN and afterwards joined a brokerage firm as head wire man.

His introduction to newspapering came first when he established a shopping publication on his own venture. In 1935 he joined the Kamloops Sentinel as editor and continued to put out that well-known interior weekly, now a daily, until he decided to come to a period of army service during the war.

BUSINESS EDITOR
He came to the Times first as business editor, later as telegraph editor and finally took over the news editor's post early last fall.

His service in the Second World War was with the army signal corps, and he was awarded the MBE.

While in Kamloops he belonged to the Elks' Lodge, and served a term as past exalted ruler.

In 1937 he married Lois Hoover of Kamloops and they had two children, Eddie and Mary.

Also surviving are Mr. McLean's mother, Mrs. Grace McKechnie, at the family home, and three brothers, George in Montreal, Neil in Prince Rupert and William in Kansas.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by McCall Bros.

Parrot Fever Hits Eleven In Duncan Area

First Outbreak Recorded on V.I.

What is believed to be the first outbreak of psittacosis, or parrot fever, ever reported on Vancouver Island, has 11 persons incapacitated in Duncan.

According to Dr. E. W. R. Best, district health officer with the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit at Nanaimo, the evidence is "circumstantial but strong."

It is contracted from fowl and can be fatal if untreated, but cures usually are certain and complete.

HIGH FEVER

Blood samples have been taken from the patients, and results cannot be known for at least two or three weeks, but all evidence points to the disease, which has the high fever and perspiration signs of many other illnesses.

It was only through informal discussion between medical men at Duncan that the outbreak was uncovered. It was found that five people from the same turkey farm were suffering similarly and at the same time, and when six more from elsewhere in the district were discovered, all connected with poultry, doctors felt sure of their diagnosis.

The disease passes easily from birds to humans, but contagion from human to human is rare. The Duncan cases are understood to be recovering.

Over $18,000 Collected For Solarium

Final figure in the Queen Alexandra Solarium's one-hour canvass of Greater Victoria Monday night is expected to exceed $18,000.

Bank of Montreal employees had not completed counting the money at noon today, but campaign chairman Miss Margaret Munn estimated "we'll go away over" last year's total of $18,000.

At last count, the campaign had reaped $17,000 and there was a "terrific amount" of money still untolded, she said.

ANNOUNCEMENT from Ottawa today names Phyllis Webb, Victoria-born poet, essayist and radio commentator, as one of six who have been awarded the latest series of Canadian government fellowships and bursaries. Miss Webb's scholarship will take her to France for a year's study of modern literature. A year ago a book of her poems, "Even Your Right Eye," was published by McClelland and Stewart of Toronto. The writer recently left Victoria for Eastern Canada after spending several months visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary Webb, Central Avenue.

Lifeguards Demanded

Why Wait To July?

By PETE LOUDON

Police, health and school officials today joined in a request to Greater Victoria municipal councils for immediate lifeguard protection at district beaches.

Current warm weather has jammed lakes and seashore—but so far not one lifeguard has been hired.

Last Sunday, Saanich police were called to turn away cars at the Beaver Lake entrance. Cars were jammed in solid rows from the highway to the beach. Several thousand swimmers churned Beaver and Elk Lakes.

MOUNTING
Safety experts say the hazard is severest where crowds swim—and it's mounting rapidly.

Supervision is necessary if it is hoped to avoid repeating the grim statistics for this area in 1956—seven dead from drowning.

Four of these occurred in popular swimming areas.

Last year a single guard was posted at Thetis Lake for six weeks only, by the city.

Last year Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee hired two guards for Beaver and Elk Lakes on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays, July and August only.

They were aided by volunteer Boy Scouts.

INADEQUATE

A lake resident said today, "It is not enough. Do they think it impossible to drown in June, or on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday or Friday?"

Saanich Police Chief Bert Pearson said the police see the need for lifeguards and support the demand. "There is always a danger when the beaches are so crowded. The hot weather doesn't just come in July and August."

Mrs. Betty Sadler, concessionaire at Beaver Lake, also supports the request for lifeguards.

"There are more and more people using the beaches. We couldn't get any more cars in here on Sunday. We sure need lifeguards."

Chairman of the Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health, G. K. Sammon said:

ALL BEACHES

"We're big enough to provide this service, on a wide basis. Statistics prove we should have guards on all these beaches."

He said he will ask the health board next Tuesday to carry a demand for more protection to each council, and to the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee.

Told of Mr. Sammon's intention, Coun. S. W. Brock, chairman of the latter body, said he won't wait for health board recommendations.

"I am definitely going to take it up Wednesday night. Personally, I think if we could prevent one drowning—let's have the guards."

There was only one death from fire last year yet Greater Victoria maintained eight fire halls on a 24-hour basis. Why shouldn't it try to approach the same level of vigilance with regard to drownings?

SUPERVISION

Greater Victoria School Board supervisor of physical education, George Grant, pointed out innumerable are in constant use at beaches.

"If they are allowed they should be supervised," he stated.

He said he helped to rescue a child from drowning who fell from a tube at Willows Beach last year—another beach unprotected by guards.

Every inexperienced diver, each swimmer who takes a dip after a heavy meal, each child who tries to make the float by himself for the first time on a dare—is flirting with death.

PANIC

Every time a small child goes astray on a beach, a mother knows a time of panic. Much of this could be allayed if a guard were stationed on a tower. The psychological effect would assure parents and be a caution to children.

Mayor Percy Scurrell looks to a time in the future when Thetis Lake will be developed as a money-raising venture and plenty of funds will be available for lifeguards and other services.

By this year "we have no money in the budget to extend the lifeguard service at Thetis."

WATER SAFETY SHOW THURSDAY FOR AREA SCHOOL CHILDREN

A water safety demonstration will be held for 1,700 Greater Victoria School Grade 5 children at Crystal Garden Thursday morning.

Sponsors are Greater Victoria School Board and Swimming and Water Safety Committee of the Victoria Red Cross.

A boat will be used to show correct procedures for getting back in after tipping and how to paddle a boat ashore when it is filled with water.

There will also be a display of how to use one's own clothing to stay afloat and correct methods of water rescue.

Economics Run In Elliott Family

Dr. G. R. Elliott, and his daughter, Dale, 22, are now in the same line of work—but to different degrees.

Professor of economics at Victoria College, Dr. Elliott received a PhD degree in economics from the University of Toronto last Friday.

Miss Elliott graduated with a BA from UBC last month. In October she will take employment with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa.

Dr. Elliott's thesis, three years in the writing, was "Enterprise and Empire in the North Pacific, 1785-1825." He received his BA degree from the University of Saskatchewan and his MA in 1947 from Toronto.

Dr. Elliott has headed the economics department at the College here since 1948.

Miss Elliott is a graduate of the college and Oak Bay High School.

HISTORIAN'S VIEW

Keep Govt. House Just as It Was

Keep the new Government House as close to the original as possible and don't let it become a "monstrosity of glass bricks and chrome."

That was the plea made today by J. K. Nesbitt, chairman of the Victoria section, B.C. Historical Association.

Mr. Nesbitt took issue with Victoria architect John di Castri who urged Monday that the new mansion be a modern structure "reflecting the spirit of our times."

Mr. Nesbitt noted that both Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Premier W. A. C. Bennett said after April's disastrous fire that there should be as little change as possible.

NO MONSTROSITY
"The government, of which the premier's boss, should therefore, not permit its architects to inflict on the public a monstrosity of glass bricks and chrome," Mr. Nesbitt said.

"Modern-day architects, for a reason that is a mystery to most laymen, want to tear away all of the past. They want to create their own past while they are living; they will do anything to create their own niche in history."

Replying to Mr. di Castri's remark that the new building should not copy the "empty forms of the past," Mr. Nesbitt said:

"The Government House destroyed by fire was anything but empty. It was a most livable home. All the people who stayed there through many years were enchanted by its warmth and friendliness."

If the White House in Washington, D.C., were destroyed, the American people would not allow a new building to look any different from the present building.

Mr. Nesbitt urged that the plans of architects F. M. Rattenbury and Sam McClure for the lost Government House, which are still in existence, be followed again.

The foundations were not destroyed by the fire, he said, and should not be torn up.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Who is entitled to vote in the general election next Monday?—E.B.

A.—"Every person in Canada, man or woman . . . is qualified to vote, if he or she:

"(a) is of the full age of 21 years or will attain such age on or before polling day;

"(b) is a Canadian citizen or other British subject;

"(c) has been ordinarily resident in Canada for the 12 months immediately preceding polling day."

This general list of qualifications is taken from the Canada Elections Act.

Q.—Is it harmful to eat the green part of potatoes or carrots which have matured above soil?—Mrs. J. T. A.

A.—Most careful housewives cut away such green parts. Food experts tell the Times the eating of those parts might cause a person to feel ill.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

MONTE ROBERTS

Usually when I attempt to write this column in the morning, the office is so noisy you can't hear yourself think. There's the clatter of typewriters and the clamor of phones, which form the normal background for any newspaper office anywhere.

But over and above this background, our shop in the morning usually vibrates with voices. Some of them talking business; most of them tossing alleged witticisms back and forth.

And my desk is located in such a way that I'm usually caught in the crossfire of persiflage between the city desk, news desk, and the other reporters.

Which is why, usually, you can't hear yourself think. But you can this morning.

The typewriters clatter, and the phones clamor, and the process of putting out a newspaper goes on.

The cheery voices are missing, though, and there's an almost-visible pall of gloom over the news room.

Because Ed McLean has left us.

Ed went quickly and cleanly, the way any man would like to go, but he went far too soon.

He took with him one of the keenest news minds in the business; an analytical, retentive mind; a sharp mind leavened with a sense of humor.

More than that, Ed was a fine man to have around. How shall we say it? He was the kind of guy who left his cigarettes on the desk, not locked in a drawer.

And he was the kind of man who shared that fine mind, freely and generously, with anyone in the business—from ears-wet cub to veteran opponents on another paper.

The sorrow we have is a selfish sorrow. We aren't sorry for Ed; we're sorry for us.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Provincial health authorities are as concerned as the city council over Gorge pollution. A letter was received by city parks department Monday stating everything will be done to ensure against septic tank wastes draining into Portage Inlet from a proposed new subdivision on Christie Peninsula. The area is provincial unorganized territory.

The junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will hold a field trip to John Dean Park, Mount Newton, on Saturday afternoon. Members will meet at the Monterey parking lot on Douglas Street at 2.15 p.m. for transportation.

Esquimalt's newest councillor, W. E. A. Barclay, was named an alternate delegate to the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee at a council meeting Monday night.

William A. Evans, 2659 Douglas, was fined $35 when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to failing to report an accident.

An earlier charge of careless driving, to which he pleaded not guilty, was dismissed through lack of evidence.

Officers will be elected at a meeting of the Kipling Society at 317 Cook Street Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Royal Canadian sea cadets will perform at sunset ceremonies in front of the legislative buildings tonight at 8.30.

The Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health has been advised Victoria is still being considered as a site for a new provincial mental hospital.

W. T. McLaughlin of Victoria will conduct a government-supervised strike vote of 65 office and clerical workers at Yarrows Ltd., following rejection of a conciliation board award by the company, the labor department announced today.

The workers are members of the Office Employees' International Union, local 15.

Management objected to a recommendation regarding union security and three weeks' holiday with pay after 10 years' service.

Department of Transport is today re-rigging the familiar Brothie Ledge navigation aid off the Dallas Road waterfront at the foot of Dallas Street.

The light is being raised above the radar markers to give clearer visibility.

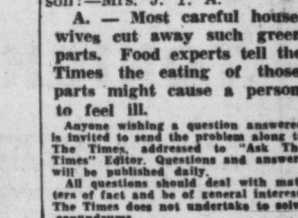

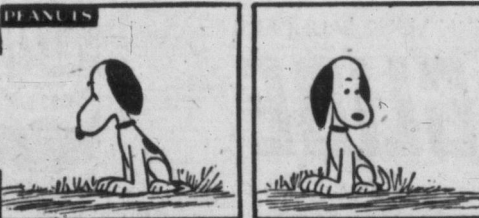

About three months ago, the characteristic of the light was changed from flashing white to flashing green, to avoid confusion with car headlights on Dallas.

Camp Gordon Head soldier Joseph Salnaitis was fined $50 in city police court today when convicted for supplying liquor to a minor.

The accused protested he handed 18-year-old Maurice Blondell, also of Camp Gordon Head, a bottle of wine in front of Johnson Street liquor store only to take to Salnaitis' quarters for him.

Police evidence said Salnaitis was asked at the time if he had given liquor to Blondell and if he knew the latter's age. He was quoted as saying he thought Blondell to be under age and "I guess I'm in for it now."

Colorful Summer Jewels Look as Cool as Sherbet

By PENNY SAVER

Costume jewelry seems to me, just makes a person feel that much warmer in the summer and I'm all for keeping it to a minimum. But I've found some that made me think of lovely cool things like fruit drinks and sherbet which would look just right with a solid-toned linen dress, for instance.

It's made up of artificial gems that look a bit like moonstones in an assortment of shapes set in gold-necklaces, bracelets and earrings ranging in price from $1.75 to $4.

The summery colors were what caught my eye. There's a choice of ice blue, pink, orange, yellow, lime green, butterscotch, cherry red, and many more, some mottled, some clear.

ONLY A ROSE

I've spotted some new china that would be a real buy for a June bride or for any housewife who's tired of using bits and pieces of several sets for family meals.

This set is so nicely designed that I was surprised when I picked it up and found it was service-weight semi-porcelain (made in England) instead of the fine bone china I'd expected.

Each piece is modernistically square, with a single big red rose on the ivory background. That's all — not another bit of trim! Open stock, you can choose from a wide assortment of pieces at 95c for a cup and saucer, $1 for a large plate, and other prices are in proportion.

Or you can take advantage of a special offer and get a 20-piece set of the china with 12 pieces of crystal and 16 pieces of stainless steel cutlery, all for $24.95.

WORDS SPEAK

Do you know the "Language of the Swords?" No, neither did I, but a jewelry store salesgirl assures me that a good many Victoria teen-agers do. Seems the newest way among the younger set to indicate "going steady," "fancy free" and so on is to wear two miniature swords on a jacket or sweater.

Position of the swords shows the wearer's status. Swords are $1.50 a pair and come with complete instructions.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Pregnant, Nursing Women Should Wear Special Bra

Many women start out at maturity with a pretty bustline but lose it by the time they are in their thirties or forties. There are many reasons for this.

This happens to women who nurse their children unless they take care to avoid it. The pregnant woman should wear brassieres designed especially for this time, bras that are built to support the extra weight which is natural during this time. Many expectant mothers fail to do this and have to give their bustline one strike against beauty even before their child arrives.

Naturally this is even more important during the nursing period. You should also lie down whenever you nurse your baby. Unless there is some special reason otherwise wearing should be done very gradually.

Many women who do not have children find that their bosoms are becoming less attractive as the years pass. This is often due to wearing improperly fitted brassieres. The bra should support, not squeeze or flatten. Many of those garment which squeeze the bust into a too-small, pointed shape break down the tissues.

Many women are unhappy because of an extremely large bust. Often these women are overweight. When they lose the bust is one of the first places in which the loss shows. The bust may still be out of proportion but it will be smaller.

There is one exercise I have used in my classes which was effective in many instances. Here it is: Stand tall. Raise the arms forward, shoulder height and shoulder width apart, palms toward the ceiling. Swing the arms down and back.

This, too, is effective. Stand tall. Make large circles with the arms, crossing them in front of the body and pulling back as the arms move upward. Continue making large, smooth, complete circles. The pull-back is important.

If you would like to increase your bust measurement, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7 "Don't Have Round Shoulders and Flat Bust—Reverse!" Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

In Honor of The Bride

Bride-elect Miss Patsy Hurly was honored recently when Mrs. F. Gilbert, Estevan Avenue, entertained at a shower. Corsages of a red rose and lily of the valley for Miss Hurly, pink carnations for her mother, Mrs. T. Hurly, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. N. P. Hanna, and white carnations and mauve stocks for her grandmother, Mrs. W. Williams, were presented. A peach and pink decorated ship held the gifts. Those invited were Mrs. G. L. Williams, Mrs. J. McNeill, Mrs. P. J. Edmonds, Mrs. R. Williams, Mrs. A. Martin, Mrs. J. W. Cox, Mrs. A. R. Cann, Mrs. W. Logie, Mrs. E. Paver, Mrs. H. McCaw, Mrs. C. Vines, Misses Ella Harrison, Wendy Cox, Shirley Hanna and Donna Gilbert.

A miscellaneous shower to honor her niece, Miss Diane Graves, was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Stewart. A red carnation corsage was given to the bride-elect. Corsages were also presented to Mrs. R. G. Graves, Mrs. M. Brown, and the honor guest's grandmother, Mrs. E. Badger. Others present were Mrs. O. Hudson, Mrs. G. Pynn, Mrs. S. M. Hale, Mrs. W. Panter, Mrs. G. Sagers, Mrs. L. Hodgson, Mrs. W. Ayton, Mrs. W. MacLennan, Mrs. P. Graves, Mrs. R. H. Sloat, Mrs. W. Graves, Mrs. H. G. Whitlock, Mrs. A. S. Thomas, Mrs. S. Hawkins, Mrs. W. Draper, Mrs. R. Johnston, Mrs. H. Wilkinson, Mrs. D. Stewart, Mrs. A. Maedel, Mrs. F. Burns, Mrs. A. M. Robertson and Misses M. Stewart, C. Stewart, J. Graves, I. Painter, L. Burns and L. Graves.

Mrs. Edward Hodgson, the former Miss Edna Hutchinson, was honor guest when Mrs. Percy Willis, assisted by Miss May King, entertained the executive of the B.C. Government Employees' Association, at a miscellaneous shower in the Willis home on Cloverdale Avenue. The guest of honor received a corsage of rose and white carnations and gifts were presented from a decorated wishing well. Mrs. Lily Primrose showed slides of her recent trip to the Hawaiian Islands. Guests also included Mrs. R. Armstrong, Mrs. G. Adams Hanning, Mrs. D. MacIvor, Mrs. E. Reesor, Mrs. N. Waincott and Misses Evelyn Christie and Amy Willis.

Mrs. J. H. Fulton and Mrs. D. J. Falconer were co-hostesses recently at a shower in honor of June bride-elect Miss Marilyn Ballantyne. The honor guest, her mother, Mrs. H. Ballantyne, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. R. Scott, were given novelty corsages of rosebuds, and the bride's sister, Miss Wendy Ballantyne, presented the gifts from a yellow and white basket. Yellow iris and white carnations flanked by white candles in crystal holders entered the lace-covered refreshment table. Guests included Mrs. C. Bosustow, Mrs. D. Pearmain, Mrs. D. Kirkendale, Mrs. L. Matthews, Mrs. T. Hunt, Mrs. E. Calverley Jr., Mrs. W. Dorges, Mrs. T. Rowan, Mrs. A. Carnochan, Mrs. J. Bone, Mrs. L. Harkin, Mrs. R. Willis, Mrs. W. MacKereth and Mrs. H. Green of Seattle.

Miss Susan Lizinski, maid of honor, wore pale pink net with lace jacket and carried a pink and white bouquet. Bridesmaid Mrs. L. Sawchuk was in pale green net with lace jacket and had a white and rose-toned bouquet. Senior bridesmaid Miss Lillian Finbow chose pale blue net, similarly styled, with blue and white bouquet, and the junior bridesmaid, Miss Genevieve Sawatski, also wore blue net with blue and white bouquet. Best man was Ernie Barnett, and ushers were Larry Sawchuk and Eric Robb.

A reception followed at Lounge Banquet Club, when the newlyweds cut a wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Edward Coleman proposed the bridal toast.

The bride's mother was gowned in pale blue nylon over taffeta, while the groom's mother was similarly gowned in pink. Both had yellow rosebud corsages.

After a honeymoon up-Island, Mr. and Mrs. Ellingson will live at 1018 McClure Street. The bride travelled in a navy blue duster over a pale blue princess-style dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Easy-to-Make Fashion

Here is the season's favorite all-jacket with drawstring waist and bouffant, a sculptured sheath that dolman sleeves is also included in so easy to make from our Anne Adams Printed Pattern 4514.

Shown here in smooth-textured linen with beige, tan and brown color tones, the sheath is designed with wide shoulder straps; four darts in front and an extra long 18-inch crown zipper in back give it beautifully slim lines and perfect fit.

This dress takes only a short time to cut, sew and fit. Directions for sewing are printed on the pattern so that you can read what to do every step of the way. A

Attendants in Pastel-Tone Gowns With Saturday Bride

A quartet of attendants in pastel gowns formed the bridal entourage for Miss Joan Campbell at her wedding Saturday evening to Mr. Melvin Charles Ellingson, which was solemnized by Dr. J. L. W. McLean. White and yellow gladioli decorated St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for the ceremony, and pansies tied with white ribbon marked the guest pews.

Organ music was played as the attractive bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Lorne Campbell. She is the daughter of Mrs. Campbell, 134 Menzies Street, and the late Mr. Douglas F. Campbell, and her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Ellingson, 512 Obed Avenue.

Her graceful princess-style bridal gown was of chantilly lace and net misting out to floor length over satin. Sequins were embroidered at the neckline and waist. Her white net veil touched with sequins and pearls fell to fingertip length, and her jewelry was pearls. She carried roses and stephanotis.

Should a Widow Restore Maiden Name?

My husband died a year ago. Lately, a couple of my friends have asked why I haven't yet taken back my maiden name. It didn't occur to me, but these people have started me thinking that maybe I should. I have three grown children. What is the correct thing to do?

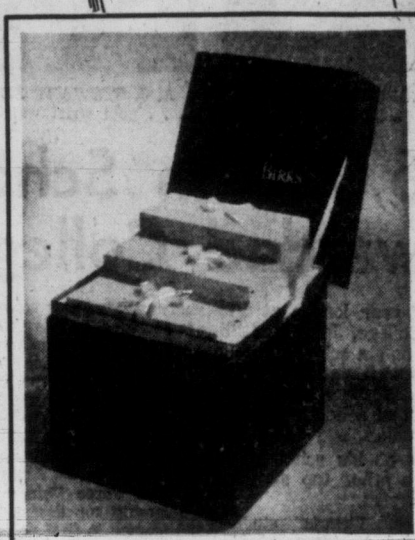

Louise Davis

Answers: The only time Louise Davis that it is permissible to return to a maiden name is when a marriage is annulled. Occasionally when a woman is divorced she breaks the rule and asks the court to restore her maiden name, but, correctly, she can never prefix the Miss (although once in a while some will abandon the Mrs. in spite of it). If a divorced woman has any children, she should keep her former husband's last name, especially for the sake of the children. Why should you want to forsake the name of the man you married, unless you re-marry? You wouldn't revert to your maiden name any more than your children would abandon their father's name for that of your father.

SHEILA E. MANN

CHARLOTTE M. KAY
... second with 85.2

City Girls Lead Student Teachers

Two Victoria girls received highest second-year marks in final examinations at the college of education, Victoria College.

Complete lists of results was released today.

Sheila E. Mann, 24, of 2300 Oak Bay Avenue, led the second year with an average of 85.9 per cent, followed by Charlotte M. Kay, 20, of 573 Monterey, with 85.2 per cent.

First-year leaders were Margaret I. Voght of Kelowna, 86.7 per cent, and Anna M. Aie of Ashcroft, 81.2 per cent.

FROM REGINA

Miss Mann also had a first-class average at Scott Collegiate high school in Regina, where she took her senior matriculation. She came to Victoria with her parents three years ago and worked as a stenographer in the Royal Bank main branch before entering college last year.

In September she will begin teaching at a Victoria elementary school and plans to enter UBC "in two years or so" to get her bachelor of education degree. Miss Mann is working this summer as a relief stenographer in the Royal Bank.

Miss Kay climbed from a second-class average in first-year college to nudge the leader in second year.

Graduate of Oak Bay High School, she is working in the department of education this summer. At college she was president of the student publication, "Tuesday Noon Record."

'SEE NO WRONG IN ACTION' SAYS FAIREY

Dr. F. T. Fairey, Liberal MP in the last Commons seeking re-election in Victoria, said today he could see no wrong in election campaigning being carried to the armed services.

He was commenting on a statement made Monday night by Conservative leader John Diefenbaker criticizing the Liberal party for sending a vote-seeking letter to servicemen.

Dr. Fairey said he had no knowledge of the letter, but added:

"Why should the armed services be different from any other citizens in the reception of campaign literature through the mails?"

"I can't understand why because men are in the armed forces they should not receive it."

ON THE HUSTINGS

Withdrawal Forecast
On Columbia Offer

Deane Finlayson, B.C. Progressive Conservative leader, said Monday night Fisheries Minister James Sinclair probably would not renew the federal offer of help on the Mica Creek power project.

Speaking on a CBC free-time provincial affairs broadcast, Mr. Finlayson said, "So bitter have become the premier and the minister of fisheries towards each other it is highly unlikely Mr. Sinclair would renew his offer to help at Mica Creek—if in fact there ever was a genuine offer in the first place."

Mr. Finlayson criticized Premier Bennett for not declaring himself for or against private development of the Columbia River. He said "one thing is certain, however, if Mr. Sinclair is re-elected, Mr. Bennett will certainly not accept federal aid."

He said the best way of assuring the co-operation necessary to develop B.C. hydro electric power was to elect a Conservative government.

Discriminatory actions by the federal government against B.C. were listed Monday night by Noel Bell, Social Credit candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich:

The unfair schedule of freight rates which makes it cheaper to ship goods from Montreal to Vancouver than from Vancouver to Calgary.

Dykling grants are made to the eastern provinces but have been cut off from B.C.

Interference in the matter of the Arrow Lakes (Kaiser) storage dam where Ottawa had to pass a new act to give it the power to stop this development, which was not contrary to the BNA Act.

Tight money, which does most harm to British Columbia because this province is developing three times as fast as the rest of Canada.

Mr. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, Conservative candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich, scoffed Monday night at federal government proposals to build a new ferry landing site on the Saanich Peninsula.

The transport department is still studying the plan and nothing is definite, he told an election meeting at Sidney.

No plans are drawn up, he said, there are various schemes to consider, but there is not the slightest chance of harbor development.

Japan Given
Right to Try
U.S. Soldier

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States agreed today to let a Japanese court try an American soldier charged with killing a Japanese woman.

By the decision, the U.S. drops any claim to the right to try William C. Girard by court martial.

A joint statement by State Secretary Dulles and Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson said the agreement was made after consideration by a joint U.S.-Japan committee, under terms of the status of forces agreement between the two countries.

The U.S. decision follows trouble in Formosa where a somewhat similar case resulted in riots less than two weeks ago. In the Formosa incident a U.S. court martial freed a soldier who killed an alleged Chinese peeping tom.

Mrs. Naka Sakai, 46, was shot while scavenging scrap metal at a U.S. Army firing range Jan. 30. The accusation under which the 21-year-old American faces trial carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

MAYFLOWER CLIPS ALONG

LONDON (Reuters)—Mayflower II, replica of the Pilgrim Fathers' ship, is about 270 miles south of Bermuda.

The ship radiod the had made 130 miles north and 92 miles west since noon Sunday. She is still steering northwest and her speed has increased to five knots.

... BALD BOY

what did he suggest. The druggist knew I knew he didn't believe me, but being a salesman he proceeded to show me a few bottles. "This one has alcohol in it," he'd tell me, "and it will kill things. This one has sulphur in it. This one has in it, well, you read that word. That's in it."

ON AND ON he'd go each time I came in, always with less hair than the time before. I became his best under-the-counter customer. I had his bottles running out of my medicine cabinet, and over my hat band, not to mention the wife's favorite chairs.

The "Lost Weekend" had nothing on Elmer's bottles. I'd become a tonic addict. I'd rub the stuff on each morning. I gave myself a 200-second hair rub. On Saturdays, I did the same thing at noon. On Sundays the wife prohibited the stuff until after church services.

I'd often smell the wife right out of the house. Once even my hairy sheep dog sniffed twice, looked at me through the mop of hair over his eyes, then moved out into the yard.

"You smell like a Barber's College," my wife would snap at me, as she opened a window even on real cold days.

WHEN I TOLD the druggist about this, he showed me new brands just on the market. "No kerosene in them," he said. "In fact, 10 minutes after you use one, you won't smell no more."

So, with moonshine Vodka drinkers I found I could use the stuff and no one would be the wiser. It wouldn't take their breath away.

At least I had accomplished one thing. Tonic camouflage.

One day I started on the hair salves. Some friend of a Bald Boy friend had used in Germany years ago for mange, and it was now on the American market for males. Guaranteed, too.

I tried it. The maid threatened to quit after trying to wash the stuff off the pillows of my bed. That ended the great German experiment fast.

I READ about a new one from Japan. It had a record of curing some 99 Mongolians out of 110. Well, that's just what the news service reported, and as with all pre-hallies I grasped the faintest hopes.

Time went on. So did my hair loss.

My dreams were to again have a Robert Taylor widow's peak. But if I kept on, I'd have a widow. My wife was a good shot.

Seeing hair show up (and I swear it laughed at me incessantly) drove me nuts. The comb became a phobia.

I'd pretend not to notice the hairs it gleefully tugged out at each use. I'd look the other way but my eyes always cheated on me and I'd see the few hundred more brown hairs hanging in the teeth on the malicious comb.

What is worse, I got to counting the hairs.

Hecklers Noisy
But St. Laurent
Talks Them Down

By MEL MORRIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Montrealers, who like their politics loud and boisterous, gave Prime Minister St. Laurent a typical send-off Monday night at two meetings winding up the Quebec leg of his election campaign.

The prime minister was besieged by hecklers and interrupted frequently. About six persons were forcibly ejected from one meeting and one man was detained by police.

The worst outbreak was in the traditionally Liberal east end, where between 5,000 and 6,000 persons packed into the Show Mart for the meeting. About 50 youths, described by Liberal party officials as members of an ultra-nationalist group, began heckling when the prime minister rose to speak and continued the interruptions until they were escorted outside by building attendants, party supporters and police.

Mr. St. Laurent was greeted with cries of "When do we get our Chateau Maisonneuve?" and "what about a national flag?" he was forced to stop his speech four times.

The prime minister was about half-way through his address when the hecklers were told to leave. They scraped their chairs and shuffled their feet but most refused to leave the building. Police and uniformed attendants grabbed them by the arms and pushed them outside. The man detained was described as the leader of the group.

'Good Night' Hecklers 'Sleep Well'

Mr. St. Laurent did not appear flustered by the interruptions. At one point, when attention strayed from him to the hecklers, he said:

"Oh, I don't think there's much going on there. I think we'll just go ahead with the meeting."

As the hecklers left, he called after them: "Goodnight, and sleep well."

The heckling at the prime minister's first meeting of the night was good-natured. There were a few cries of "Tell us about Trade Minister Howe," and "what about closure," referring to the procedure adopted by the government to end debate on the pipeline issue.

"Well," replied the prime minister, "I don't know if you think you should apply closure to me, but I assure you I'm going to apply it to myself pretty soon."

Mr. St. Laurent said that "prior to the pipeline debate the Conservative opposition said they would attempt to block passage of the bill by 'every means at their disposal.'"

"Does any Canadian think that a government which aspires to the confidence of a majority of the population should simply abandon any proposed legislation that a minority of members of Parliament feel it is in their political interest to oppose?"

TORY MOVE
He said the closure rule was introduced by the Conservatives under Sir Robert Borden "and I am very sure that if the Conservative party ever happened to win power that they wouldn't abolish the closure rule."

The prime minister said the attack by the Progressive Conservatives on Canada's external

Prosecution of Mounties Set;
Golf, Concerts Threatened

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Mounties Baseball Club will be summoned to appear in police court here next Monday for playing baseball on Sundays, city prosecutor Stewart McMorran said Monday.

He said he had issued instructions for the summonses which will be based on games played here on May 5 and May 12.

Mr. McMorran said a summary of the evidence gathered by two detectives at Sunday's Pacific Coast League double header between Mounties and Hollywood Stars would be forwarded to the Attorney-General for more flats to prosecute.

The announcement by Mr. McMorran followed a statement Monday by Attorney-General Robert Bonner that the city prosecutor had no choice but to proceed with prosecution.

The Mounties' booster club plans to request flats from the attorney-general's department to prosecute other Sunday activities, including golf and Vancouver Symphony Orchestra concerts.

Flats were issued by the attorney-general's department two weeks ago for May 5 and May 12 Sunday games, and Mr. McMorran has consistently declined to comment on the delay in further legal action.

Questioned Monday, he said: "It's quite obvious there was a reason." He declined further explanation.

Attorney-General Bonner said: "I do not think the city prosecutor has any choice in the face of wilful persistence." Mounties' club president Nat Bailey said the team—the PCL leader—intends to keep on playing Sunday ball.

CAMPNEY

Mr. Campney also denied there are "hundreds" of CF-100s in storage across the country because they are obsolete.

They are being used for training purposes, he said, and added: "The CF-100 today can take on any Russian bomber now in operating service."

The CF-105 is "one of the furthest forward planes in the world today."

Stating that he "must take exception" to Gen. Peakes' statements, Mr. Campney said: "When politics comes in the door, care and scrupulousness go out the window."

"I'll be charitable and attribute them to that," he said.

The defence minister defended the record of the Liberal government during the last eight years under Prime Minister St. Laurent, during which time Canada has made "great strides never before equalled in her history."

"It's not been a perfect record," he said, "we've probably made mistakes, but it is the best government we've ever had."

He warned his audience against the "wild and fantastic promises" of the opposition parties, "which are just intended to get your vote."

The Social Credit proposal for $100 monthly old age pension is "just a lot of nonsense."

"When you're out of power, you can put down any figure you like."

Every dollar spent by either the federal or provincial governments comes out of the people's pockets, Mr. Campney said.

"They (Social Credit) want to call the tune, and we pay the shot," he said.

The defence minister noted that Social Credit billboards proclaim that "we want a better deal from Ottawa."

"How much more do they want?" he asked.

The federal government last year took out $293,000,000 from R.C. in tax revenue and spent $373,000,000 in the province. The provincial government should be grateful for the treatment it receives.

"Performance speaks far beyond mere promises," Mr. Campney said in outlining the achievements of the Liberals.

The Conservative party is a one-man show, he said. Its national leader, John Diefenbaker, is the "lone ranger from the prairies."

In his introductory remarks, Mr. Fraser said splinter parties such as Social Credit and the CCF are "undesirable and could be disastrous."

LISTS

Whatever nominal rolls that had then been received from various military establishments were distributed to the party representatives at the same time. Others were distributed in the same manner as they became available. No restriction was placed on the use of the lists.

While the lists did not give the postal address the names were grouped by military establishment so that a letter sent to a serviceman giving his rank, name and camp or base would reach him.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in Liverpool, N.S., Monday night that a letter printed on the letterhead of the National Liberal Federation over a facsimile signature of Prime Minister St. Laurent was sent to servicemen urging them to re-elect a Liberal government. He said his party was unable to obtain mailing lists of armed forces personnel.

lous that conciliation be reached."

"Our actions all along," he added, "have shown that we wanted to get the parties together."

The chairman and one member of a three-man conciliation board have recommended in their majority report a five-month truce in contract negotiations. Robert Smeal, union nominee on the board, charged that the report was "illegal" because only the minister of labor can sanction such an extension.

The union, representing 32,000 Coast woodworkers, is demanding a 20 per cent wage increase and other benefits. The present master contract covering the industry expires June 14.

QUEEN, PRINCE TRY OUT NEW COMET AIRLINER

LEUCHARS, Scotland (Reuters) — The Queen and Prince Philip travelled today by a Comet II jet airliner to an RAF base here—the first time members of the Royal Family have flown in this type of jet plane since it was grounded three years ago after a series of crashes.

The Comet brought the royal couple from an RAF base in Norfolk for a visit here.

20 Per Cent Raise Big Issue at Stake

These are the issues in the rest periods, hourly work in International Woodworkers of shingle mills instead of incentive pay based on production, dispute which affect 12,000 woods workers on Vancouver Island, 32,000 throughout B.C.

The union wants a 20 per cent raise and the 157 operators won't grant any increase.

The IWA wants a union shop and the operators refuse.

The union wants various changes, such as Boxing Day, the entire forest industry could as a holiday, mill swing shifts, be closed down.

U.K. Papers Predict Cuts in H-Bomb Tests

LONDON (AP) — Two London newspapers say Britain will cut short her current hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific after her next and third blast. It had been understood the government planned to touch off four explosions.

Government officials refused to confirm or deny the reports by The News Chronicle and the Labor Party's Daily Herald in dispatches from the test centre at Christmas Island. The reports say the tests will be curtailed because of: 1. Pressure brought by the Labor opposition in Parliament to keep radioactive fall-out to a minimum.

2. Success of the two tests.

Prime Minister Macmillan,

while refusing to accede to demands to call off the Christmas Island tests, has said they will be held to a minimum.

Answering a question in the Commons — from Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell, Macmillan said the fallout from Friday's bomb was "insignificant."

Gaitskell referred to press reports that 2,000 American scientists have signed a petition asking for an international agreement to stop the tests.

Macmillan replied "I have seen references in the newspapers to this appeal by these scientists. The reports do not say that it is supported by any new evidence."

Lady Rose Going Back to Owners As Strike Settlement Hope Dims

VANCOUVER — Coast Ferries Ltd. officials said the Mv. Lady Rose will be returned to her owners today and ferry service to the Gulf Island suspended indefinitely following a breakdown in talks to end a deckhands' strike.

O. H. New, managing director of the company which operates the Lady Rose between Steveston and the Gulf Island, said the Seafarers' International Union has rejected an offer made by the company last Friday in an effort to end the eight-day walkout.

He said the vessel is chartered by the Coast Ferries Ltd. and would be returned to its owners.

A documentary film on Canada's part in the Trans-Atlantic telephone cable project, "Bridge Under the Ocean," will be shown at Royal Theatre starting Wednesday.

The one-reel feature in color was produced by National Film Board in the "Canada Carries On" series.

Premiere coincides with the 28th annual meeting of the Telephone Association of Canada in session here this week.

Phone Cable Film At Royal This Week

The union claimed wages were lower and hours longer aboard the Lady Rose than on comparable coastal craft, while the company said wage demands would cost $33,000 this year and necessitate a 33 per cent increase in passenger and freight rates.

"It would appear that all hope of a settlement is gone now," Mr. New said, "so we have no other course but to tie up the ship."

He said the vessel is chartered by the Coast Ferries Ltd. and would be returned to its owners.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITIES
INCOME TAX EXEMPTION

A CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITY, contracted for by a taxpayer on his own life, may now qualify for Registration as a Retirement Savings Plan under the Income Tax Act.

Premiums paid on such a CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITY may now be deducted from earned income thus effecting a saving in personal income tax.

The amount you may deduct is subject to the following conditions:

1. If you are not now a member of a Registered Pension Fund or Plan, you may deduct Canadian Government Annuities premiums up to 10% of earned income, but not exceeding $2,500 a year.

2. If you are currently a member of a Registered Pension Fund or Plan, you may deduct the premium paid on a Canadian Government Annuity contract and the contributions made under your present Pension Fund, but the combined payments eligible for deduction cannot exceed 10% of your earned income, to a maximum of $1,500 a year.

LOWER PREMIUM RATES

Purchasers of Canadian Government Annuities after April 1, 1957, will benefit from reduced premium rates reflecting an increase in the interest rate.

Widow, 77, Wins Gay Week In Hollywood at Giant Bingo

BY AB KENT

It was her first win at bingo, yet she took it in her stride as only the aged have wisdom to do.

Mrs. Mabel White, 77, of 1135 Empress—a little white-haired widow—won Victoria Kinsmen Club's "big surprise" at the club's sixth giant bingo in Memorial Arena Monday.

At a time of her choice she will spend seven glamorous days in the glitter capital of the world—Hollywood—for being picked at random from 3,000 eligible bingo players.

Called to the platform from the happy throng of 6,300 bingo players, Mrs. White stood, then sat, and stood again in the glare of spotlights as her surprise was detailed.

She smiled a little, her mouth opened and her bespectacled eyes sparkled. She stood with her hands folded in front of her, then confessed she was just a bit surprised.

But she's afraid her daughter's job will not allow another vacation this year, so she may take another daughter, Mrs. Elsie Robertson, 249 Regina.

The "big surprise" means all expenses paid and $100 cash. Transportation is by air, accommodation is five nights at the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel and one at Disneyland Hotel.

There will be luncheon with a screen star, a tour of de luxe night clubs, dining and dancing ("Yes, I dance") in some of the city's most noted entertainment centres and a helicopter flight to Disneyland.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITIES
INCOME TAX EXEMPTION

A CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITY, contracted for by a taxpayer on his own life, may now qualify for Registration as a Retirement Savings Plan under the Income Tax Act.

Premiums paid on such a CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITY may now be deducted from earned income thus effecting a saving in personal income tax.

The amount you may deduct is subject to the following conditions:

1. If you are not now a member of a Registered Pension Fund or Plan, you may deduct Canadian Government Annuities premiums up to 10% of earned income, but not exceeding $2,500 a year.

2. If you are currently a member of a Registered Pension Fund or Plan, you may deduct the premium paid on a Canadian Government Annuity contract and the contributions made under your present Pension Fund, but the combined payments eligible for deduction cannot exceed 10% of your earned income, to a maximum of $1,500 a year.

LOWER PREMIUM RATES

Purchasers of Canadian Government Annuities after April 1, 1957, will benefit from reduced premium rates reflecting an increase in the interest rate.

For full information on several types of plans available, consult your DISTRICT ANNUITIES REPRESENTATIVE, or mail, postage free, the coupon below.
